Arrested during OPP manhunt in Anson Township

Youth guilty, gets suspended sentence

A 17 year old youth who was arrested by Minden OPP, June 24 and charged with numerous offences including 15 counts of break, enter and theft, and one of pointing a firearm, was given a suspended sentence and three years probation when he appeared in Lindsay Provincial Court last Wednesday.

Barry Sullings, a former ward of the Metro Children's Aid Society, was called a "victim of circumstance" by an OPP constable who was involved in the search that led to Sullings' arrest.

The youth faced charges in connection with eight incidents of break, enter and theft in the Bracedridge area and seven of break, enter and theft occurrences in Anson Township.

Legion Carnival is on in village this evening

The 33rd annual Haliburton Legion Carnival is on in Haliburton village tonight, and there should be plenty to please all who attend.

Activities will get under way at 6:30 p.m., when jet aircraft of the Canadian armed forces will perform a fly pass. At 7 p.m. the parade will begin its journey to the fairgrounds, passing down the village's main street. Three pipe bands will provide the music, and various floats, which businesses and groups have been working on in recent weeks, promise to add colour and humour to the parade.

A pipe band concert featuring the Canadian General Electric Pipe Band will be held at the fair grounds following the parade.

A midway will operate at the fair grounds throughout the afternoon and evening, and various games of chance will also be available. A bingo will also be available. A bingo is slated for 8 p.m. in the Legion auditorium.

A dance will also be held in the Dysart Community Centre featuring the music of the Ike Kelneck and his band.

A draw for a Ford Bronco will take place at 11 p.m.

Be sure you don't miss this year's carnival. It's shaping up to be the best one yet.

District Canine team, an OPP helicopter and the OPP Tactical Rescue Unit from Toronto. He was one of three people sought in connection with the break-ins. The other two, Ronald Douglas Fraser, 33, and Arlene Leah Deyoung, who were believed heavily armed and dangerous, escaped despite the search effort. They remain at large.

OPP constable Gibb told Judge George Inrig that Sullings willingly submitted to arrest and aided police in air surveillance during which he pointed out the locations where the break, enter and thefts occurred. Gibb said it appeared Fraser and Deyoung used Sullings as a "pack horse" when hunt camped and cottages were broken into and liquor and food consumed.

Minden OPP constable Barry Connelly said he and a second officer searched hunt camps in Anson Township, where a number of stolen articles were discovered. Sullings was found with a gun which he dropped on command, but his two companions escaped into the heavily wooded area around the camp.

Margaret Elder, a social worker with the Metro Children's Aid, said she knew Sullings for a three year period beginning in 1971, and that he had lived in a number of foster homes. She said much of his trouble was a covered that the handgun was missing from the drawer where it was normally kept. Police say there was no sign of forced entry, and speculate that the theft occurred some time ago. The handgun was last seen by the Footes in February, according to constable Jim Chapman, who is investigating the incident.

The gun and antique jewellery were valued at $2000. They were not insured, police say.

Constable Chapman said it appears the thief or thieves had an inside knowledge of the Foote home.

The incident remains under investigation.

Deputy reeve and former businessman Two say they will run for reeve of Stanhope

Though municipal elections are four months away, two Stanhope residents have indicated their intention to run for the position of reeve in the township. Jim Harrison, present deputy reeve, and Bill Barber, a retired businessman who has lived year round in Stanhope for the past five years, have both confirmed that they will be seeking to head council in the November 13 election.

Present reeve Sinclair Nesbitt announced recently that he would not seek re-election to the position he has held for the past eight years. Nesbitt said he would consider running for reeve of Anson, Hindon and Minden, where he presently makes his home, if the people of that municipality urged him to do so.

Jim Harrison has held the position of deputy reeve in Stanhope for the past five years, and has been a member of council since 1970.

"There's no more mountains to climb," Harrison said in an interview Monday, referring to Sinclair Nesbitt's definition of himself as a "mountain climber." "but I can still see a few things that need doing within the township."

"My main concern is with recreation," Harrison said. He indicated his hope that the township can obtain an approved park with tennis courts and other facilities that would benefit summer and year round residents alike.

Roads would also be given priority if he were reeve, Harrison said.

Holding the line on taxes is important, Harrison said.

"Stanhope had a very small increase in its budget this year, and we want to keep it that way."

Harrison said he felt experience on municipal councils is an important factor.

"Experience is one of the main things," he said. "When you're involved for the last seven years, you've got to know something about it."

"I think a person should sit on council before they try to run."

Bill Barber, the other confirmed candidate, has not sat on Stanhope council, though he said Monday that he has attended council meetings in the past few months to familiarize himself with the affairs of the township.

"I'm interested in seeing what I can do for the municipality," said Barber, a metallurgist and former production manager for a crown corporation manufacturing armaments for the Canadian and American armed forces. Barber, who is 59, retired at 54, and has lived year round at his home on Little Hawk Lake for the past five years.

"Sinc Nesbitt has been an excellent reeve," Barber said in an interview. "and if he was running this time I wouldn't run". He has decided to run, however, "because I don't see anyone coming along who could do as good a job as I might do."

Barber said he feels his experience in senior management qualifies him to run for municipal office since "the affairs of the community are similar to running a business". In both cases, he said, the main concern is "getting the most you can for the dollar."

"I'm vitally concerned about the fact that we basically have three things in the community," Barber said, "clean air, clean water, and green trees." Tourism is the main industry in Stanhope, and "my idea would be to protect our interests in tourism through protecting the

Channel still choked with weeds-"a stinking hole"

MTC ignores LKTA request

The Lake Kashagawigamog Tourist Association is getting impatient with the Ministry of Transport and Communications over a lack of response regarding the association's request to widen and deepend the channel at the base of Head Lake, says the association's president.

John Teljeur says that "he hasn't heard a darn thing," since a letter outlining the request was sent three weeks ago.

"We have had no response to our letter whatsoever... we had hoped that they would at least have the decency to answer us," he said.

Teljeur says there have been serious problems with keeping the touring boat, which the association started leasing two weeks ago, out of weeds in the narrows, where it travels to and from Haliburton village.

"We've had to cancel trips because we've had weeds and plants caught in the cooling system of the engines. I didn't know until yesterday that weeds, when caught in the system, heat up the engines badly. We discontinued using the boat for a while because we found some of the parts were broken," he said.

Teljeur blames the problem "strictly on the weeds." If the association does not receive a reply soon, another letter will be sent repeating the request in a month's time. By then, he says "the ministry will have had lots of time to answer."

Teljeur feels that "we (the association) have a good agreement with the community, and are providing them with a good service. The ministry should be able to help."

In addition to the shallow depth of the channel, Teljeur says that the channel has turned into "a stinking hole" and is "not very attractive to the tourist or guest in the boat."

The letter basically requests that the ministry consider dredging operations in the channel to allow water craft to move back and forth from Lake Kashagawigamog to Haliburton village.

The association approached the ministry three years ago with a similar request pertaining to the channel. No reply was received.

Drugs stolen in pharmacy breakin, two are arrested

Drugs valued at $568.82 stolen in a breakin at Cauldron Pharmacy in Haliburton Friday night have been recovered by Minden OPP. Two people have been charged.

Police say thieves entered the store through a side door which had been boared up following an earlier breakin. A lock on the door had not been repaired.

Prescription and non prescription drugs were taken, police say.

Two people were subsequently apprehended in Haliburton and charged with break, enter and theft.

Sharon Nunn, 18, of Haliburton, was released pending a court appearance. Craig James Miller, 17, of no fixed address was held in custody and transported to Lindsay jail pending an August 15 court appearance.

Police say Miller had a number of charges outstanding.

Fiddlers, dancers, had crowds clapping

Some 83 fiddlers and step dancers from across Ontario and Quebec converged on Haliburton village over the weekend for the second annual Haliburton Legion Fiddle and Step Dancing Contest. By the time the sound of the last fiddle tune had faded from the Curling and Squash club building where the contest was held, some $2000 in prize money had been awarded, and close to 1,500 people had turned up to enjoy the skill and energy of the performers.

Harold Bannon, chairman of this year's event, termed the show "a great success", as did almost all of those who took part. More than twice as many fiddlers and dancers took part this year than last year, when the show was held for the first time.

"I think the show really put a lot of people in town"

Bannon said. He attributed the increased population to the fact that a substantial amount of prize money was offered this year.

Receipts have not yet been tabulated, but he estimated that approximately $4000 will be left over after all expenses are met. The money will go to the Legion building fund.

Though there was money to be won for those who participated, it was the music that brought the crowds. Attendance Friday evening topped 500, while 250 turned up for the Saturday afternoon show. Saturday evening, when the open class fiddling and other top categories were decided, the arena was jammed with more than 700 spectators.

The open class fiddling category was hotly contested, with some excellent playing drawing loud applause from an appreciative audience.

Dwight Lubinicki of Scarborough was awarded first prize of $100, and received the Harold Bannon trophy for his efforts. Second place and $75 went to Rick Cormier of Bay Ridges. Third prize of $50 was awarded to Bob Arbuckle of Stouffville, while Glen Warburton of Lindsay took fourth spot and $25.

In the contest to determine the best fiddler in Haliburton County, Norm Graham of Gelert was declared the winner. Graham, who represented Snowdon Township, received $50 and a trophy donated by Haliburton County.

Other winners in the fiddling contest were: 5-12 category - First, Donnell Leahy, $75 and the Driftwood Restaurant Trophy; second, Tommy Yorke of Perth, $50; and Denise Leahy third, $30.

At 81, he can still make a fiddle sing

'When I was seven, I bought a fiddle for a dollar and a half'

by Joe Banks

The knarled hand grasps the neck of the fiddle gently, and the instrument is raised up to the aged face and firmly placed into the hollow of the neck. Slowly, the bow is picked up. It's cherry-wood frame shines brightly under the blazing auditorium lights. A finger thoughtfully plucks one of the strings, checking the instrument's tone.

The man is in his 81st year, but his eyes, ears and mind are as sharp as ever. His steady hand places the bow across the strings and he arcs the bow slowly across the fragile fiddle.

"Sounds O.K. Ed," he says to another long-lived man sitting next to him. Ed smiles brightly and turns his head toward the stage, gazing at a young contestant step-dancing. He nods approval.

"She's good," he says, "damned good."

The 81-year old man puts the fiddle down, and glances around the auditorium. He takes a deep breath and sighs. He is impatient to tell his story.

The music on the stage stops, and Ed Lefave gets his chance to talk. His blue eyes glisten in the light.

"I've been playing the fiddle ever since I was seven. Yes sir. It was when I was seven," he says.

The friend beside him, 74-year old, John Leigh, laughs admiringly. "Yep. He started playing when he was seven, but I didn't start until I was seventy. Played strictly by ear. I took no lessons or nothing. Course, my fiddling's not very good."

Lefave interrupts.

"You can still put out a good tune when you want to, John, you know that."

Leigh nods his head slightly, but Lefave still wants to tell the rest of his story. He goes on.

"You see, I was the oldest in the family, and my dad didn't want me buying a fiddle. When I was seven, I bought a fiddle for a dollar and a half. I used to sneak it out of my room in the house in a pillowcase and bring it out to the barn, where I was building a case for it, you see."

He looks at the case beside him thoughtfully and continues.

"I used to be pretty damned good at one time, but I'm getting old now - can't play as well as I used to."

Leigh smiles beside him.

"I had to learn the hard way. Played completely by ear - took no lessons. I guess I've always love music, all kinds of music. That's really why I come: to listen and record on my tape recorder. I've got an eight-track player and a good stereo system -

A young step dancer happily performs before a crowd of about 700 people last weekend at Haliburton's Old Tyme fiddle and step dancing contest.

The driver of this truck luckily escaped without a scratch when he pulled over too close to the shoulder of the road and rolled over. The accident occurred Friday morning along L. Kashagawigamog Road.

AH and M Council will rename village road

Dave Stevens of the Beaverbrook Golf Course was present at the regular meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden council, July 12, regarding a name for a portion of old South Water Street.

The new road created by new highway diversion will be named "Golf Course Road" and council will request M.T.C. to erect a sign denoting Golf Course Rd. off South Water Street.

Orville Eagle attended the council to discuss the amount to flow through existing culverts in the causeway at Horseshoe Lake. The Clerk was directed to contact M.T.C. for information as to the proper size of culvert required to adequately handle the flow of water and to request W.D. Ham, District Engineer, to attend the next regular council meeting regarding this matter.

Bob McCallum was present opposing the public access on Plan 550 which the municipality has been improving. McCallum also delivered letters from neighbouring property owners expressing their concern regarding pollution, excessive traffic, etc. Council agreed to abandon this project in the interest of safety.

Council agreed to purchase the four drawer filing cabinet of letter size from Dave Magee for the sum of $75.00.

Ambulance personnel, David Magee and Jim Elder, authorized to attend the Ambulance and Emergency Care Program in Orillia between September 17, 1978 and April 1, 1979. The enrolment fee of $275.00 per applicant will be paid. Any other expenses incurred shall be borne by the personnel, council decided.

Special permission was granted to severance application No. H-128-78. Any further severances must be developed through a plan of subdivision if proposed within two years on this property. This consideration is given to settle an estate.

A letter was received from the Ministry of the Environment explaining how sections of the Act may affect the municipality in terms of enforcement. The Clerk was directed to relay Council's comments on the subject. Council had no objection to John Lawson holding a course of instruction in the care and use of Scuba at Rotary Park on Wednesday evenings, providing that no interference is made to swimming area.

Pursuant to a request from Mrs. E. Gilligan, Council directed the Road Superintendent to obtain a sign warning drivers of children playing.

Alex Millar and Mr. J.O. Jackson were in attendance to report on the progress of the new curling club. Council approved the sketches presented at this meeting.

A letter was received from ratepayers expressing their concern regarding the possibility of issuing a licence for pinball machines and a pool room. The Clerk was directed to advise that to date no such application had been received.

Mr. Pink, President of the Brady Lake Cottage Assoc. was present to strongly oppose the recent improvements the township has been making to property in part lot 4, Conc. 1, Hindon Twp. Council agreed to abandon any further improvements but would revert to weed control and clean up only.

The Reeve and clerk were authorized to execute an agreement with Totten Sims Hubicki Assoc. Ltd. relative to updating the Master Development Plan and Development of Winter Race Track and Participation Park and Trails within the Minden Approved park.

Roy Windover was present to discuss some revisions to his plan of subdivision in part of lots 3 & 4, Concession A, Twp. of Anson. The Clerk was directed to prepare another agreement to include the amendments.

A registered letter will be sent to the owner of a building erected on the original marine allowance in lot 10, Concession 5, Twp. of Minden advising him to remove such building by August 22, 1978. If the building is not removed by that date, the municipality will remove it and any costs involved will be charged against the owner of the building, council decided.

Mrs. R. Muirhead was present regarding property in lot 26, Concession 5, Minden and a zoning change from RCA to RCB. Council agreed in principle with the request.

The Reeve and Clerk were hereby authorized to execute an agreement with Helmut Bender et al pertaining to development of property in lots 14 and 15, Concession A, Twp. of Hindon.

P.W.D. accounts were approved for payment in the amount of $55,720.29.

The following accounts were also approved for payment:

General - $209,763.64 and Water - $2,068.77.

An application from C. Nesbitt regarding a taxi licence was considered by Council. The matter was deferred till the next meeting pending receipt of further information.

Council agreed to pay Rita McNeil the sum of $200 for property in part of lot 15, Concession 5, Minden Twp., property required for widening road purposes.

Council agreed to sell fill from the Ingoldsby pit for 15c per yard.

By-law 78-35, a by-law to amend By-law 74-33, as amended, to purchase fire protection from the Township of Stanhope, was approved.

The Annual County Fair sponsored by the Minden Agricultural Society to be held August 12th and 13th, 1978 was declared and designated as a Community Festival and the provisions of By-law 77-38 will take effect.

The Minden Agricultural Society were granted permission to use the road allowance between lots 5 and 6, Concession A, Minden Twp. for the county fair to be held August 12 and 13th, 1978; such allowance to be used for parking purposes only.

An application for severance was received from C. Wyllie. The clerk was directed to advise that re-zoning may be required and 5 acres must be retained for a cottage park.

Dick Schell, By-law Enforcement Officer, was appointed as Council's representative to attend the Businessman's Assoc. meetings and the membership fee of $25.00 was authorized for payment.

Council agreed to donate environment.

"I don't say we shouldn't have industry," Barber said, "but that industry should blend into the environment."

He termed the upgrading of the Stanhope airport "a controversial issue."

"It must grow," he said, "but at our discretion." "What we can do now is plan so that we guide the thing in the right direction."

"I wouldn't want to see the taxpayer burdened down with the cost of operating it."

Barber said planning should not be carried out in blocks of two years, but should involve thinking "15 or 20 years in advance."

Barber said he doesn't see any big issues looming on the horizon, but rather a number of small concerns that are vital to cottagers and permanent residents.

Permanent residents, he feels, are concerned with two employment and the high cost of living. Cottagers are concerned primarily with a different set of problems, which though relatively small, are nevertheless significant. Barber feels. Cottagers concern centre on water levels in the lakes, water quality, water lot leases, road allowances, and other things relating to their residences. And both groups, he says, "are entitled to a fair bit of consideration."

Barber says he would also look into pension plans and job protection for municipal employees.

"We should neither lead nor follow, but should be in a middle of the road position in salaries and benefits," he said.

Barber said he didn't think the fact that he hasn't served on municipal councils in the past was of much importance.

"I think if a fellow has the qualifications it doesn't matter if he has been up through the ranks of council, if he has been up through the ranks of business."

There were 21 persons charged with liquor violations, during this time, while 11 persons were charged with boating violations.

Six break-ins were reported and one person has been charged with impaired driving.

NHL star cuts arm with chainsaw

Brian Watson popular star of the Washington Capitals and instructor at the Haliburton Hockey Haven, was rushed to Toronto by air Sunday after he gashed his arm with a chainsaw while working around his cottage at Eagle Lake.

Following an examination at the local Red Cross Hospital, Watson was transported to a Toronto hospital by air.

transport supplied by Robt. Bishop Jr. of Haliburton.

Several stitches were required to close the cut on Watson's arm, but by Tuesday, he was back on the ice at the Dystart arena instructing the youngsters from the hockey haven.

Watson said Tuesday that he had been very fortunate as the doctor who treated him in Toronto said that if the wound had been a little deeper, it could have ended his hockey career.

Watson said he expects the arm to be back to full capacity in about three weeks.

result of "bad social judgement", in that he chose the wrong kind of companions. She said he was always neat, clean and punctual.

Heather Hase, a Toronto parole officer who said she first dealt with Sullings in January 1977, confirmed the matter of his poor judgement about companions.

Crown Attorney Linda Price told the court that sending Sullings to jail would lead him to learn about more sophisticated ways of committing crime. She recommended trade training for the youth with a strict curfew and adult supervision.

Judge Inrig said the youth's list of offences was sufficient to warrant a substantial jail term. However, he said, the evidence presented by police officers altered the picture.

Judge Inrig, in passing sentence, said it was clear the youth should not return to Toronto to live.

"It would appear you went into the north country with a friend, not intending to commit any crime, but you were unable to do anything about it," the judge said.

"Your co-operation with the police is in your favour, and I am going to suspend sentence and place you on probation for three years. This does not mean you are getting off," he said. "If you break probation, you can still be brought back here and sentenced on these charges."

Accident damages high

A Toronto man has been charged with failing to report a collision forthwith after the car he was driving struck an asphalt burner last Wednesday morning.

Gerald A. Kagenbauer, 21, was eastbound on Water Street in Minden when he lost control of his vehicle and struck the burner which was stationary at the side of the road.

Kagenbauer's car sustained $1500 damage, while damage to the asphalt burner is estimated at $100.

A 24 year old Haliburton man was found to have no driver's licence after his eastbound car lost control on a curve and went into a ditch Thursday morning.

Kenneth Wilkinson escaped with minimal injury after the car entered a north ditch on County Road #2 and rolled on its roof.

Wilkinson has been charged with driving without an operator's licence.

Damage to his car is estimated at $800.

A Willowdale youth escaped minor injuries when his car also entered a ditch and rolled over Sunday morning.

Charged with failing to report an accident forthwith is John Reynolds, 16, after his westbound car went out of control on a curve and spun into a ditch.

Reynold's car sustained $1200 damage.

Two people escaped with minor injuries after the car in which they were driving struck a stump on Sunday morning.

The driver of the car, Heinz J. Kibjib, 23 of Norval, told police that he had lost control of the car and entered a ditch on Northshore Road, striking a stump.

Estimated damage to Kibjib's car is $2200.

SELECT COMMITTEE ON HEALTH-CARE FINANCING AND COSTS

A Select Committee of the Legislature has been established to review health-care costs and alternative methods of financing health care. Interested individuals, groups or organizations should obtain the precise terms of reference from the Clerk of the Committee and should present written briefs to him by July 27, 1978. Requests for oral presentation of briefs should be made to the Clerk of the Committee for consideration by the Committee. It is intended that oral presentations will be heard between Monday, July 31, 1978 and Tuesday, August 22, 1978 subject to revision by the Committee as may be required.

one of them Pioneer outfits, cost me around $750. I collect all kinds of music, I've got a lot of old tapes; and old records, too."

"You should see the tapes he's got," says Lefaive, "I'm not kidding. He must have hundreds."

Lefaive is unsettled and goes on with his story. "I played all over the States and other places around Canada. I started in the States in Midland and toured the country from there. I used to work as a cook on a steamer for a while - made around 60 dollars a month. Now a days, you get paid a lot more for a job like that one."

"I used to play a lot of dances in my day, but I never made much money. Maybe around six or seven dollars if you were lucky."

He pauses a moment, trying to think of a way to change his story from the past to the present.

"When we came from Quebec, in 1933, my dad gave me a violin that was made in Italy in 1640. 1640! That's an old one - and rare. It'd be worth a lot of doo if I wanted to sell it. But I won't sell it - no sir. I wouldn't be doing right by my dad if I sold it, would I? No sir. I'm a very respectable person all the way around the table - I don't like dirt. And that'd be a rotten thing if I sold that fiddle."

Meanwhile, Leigh is relishing the music of the fiddler on stage. He'll talk, but he's impatient and wants to listen to the rest of the contest. He turns his head, with his eyes still on the fiddler and laughs.

"There ain't quite nobody who can play the fiddle like me. Oh, how old did Ed say his other fiddle is? 1640? 1640? Well I got one that was made in Germany, but not quite as old as Ed's, but it's almost twins with Ed's. Once Ed was tuning the two of them together, and after he was finished, I couldn't tell one from the other. In sound or looks. We don't take them around though - too dangerous. Somebody could steal them," he says.

"It's fun," adds Leigh, "but everybody seems to want me to play when I go to these things and I'm not a good fiddle player. I just listen to the tune very carefully and play that way. The hard part is getting them fingers in the right place. It's tough to get the tones you're looking for."

Leigh stops talking and he draws his attention back to the stage. He looks at Lefaive.

"Time to go, Ed?" he asks.

Lefaive nods his head and picks up the case which holds his fiddle. He gets up slowly, glances at the stage, and walks toward the warm-up room at the rear of the auditorium. He is getting ready for his turn.

Leigh side-glances at Lefaive walking away, chuckles to himself, turns the tape-recorder off, and sets it down beside him. "I just love this stuff"

Dwight Lumbnicki walked away with two firsts in the competition. He received trophies for top honours in both open and 19 - 35 classes. Lumbnicki had won the open class last year also.

Most of those who competed in this year's event said they would be back next year. Harold Bannon said Monday. Next year's show will probably be expanded to include an open competition for step dancers as well as fiddlers, Bannon said.

This was part of the crowd present Saturday night for the open class fiddle and step dancing finals at the curling rink in Haliburton. Over 1500 people turned up over the weekend to watch the event.

Forest fires are down, Ministry says

The number of forest fires in the county is down significantly this year from March to July, compared to the same period last year, a Ministry of Natural Resources spokesman says.

Bob Musclow, fire control supervisor for the area, says 62 fires were reported last year from March to July. Only 16 fires have been reported this year within the same period, a decrease of 76%.

Musclow attributes the decrease to the "cold and wet spring we had". Spring is generally the worst time of year for fires since the bush is still dry from winter, he said. "The bush was too wet to dry out. We even tried to do some burning, but it just wouldn't catch".

But even though the number of fires is down, says Musclow, these past few weeks have had the highest fire hazard level of the season.

"The week of July 8 was the worst hazard week. The bush had dried up pretty good, but then we had that heavy rain and that seemed to do the trick," said Musclow.

He added that this week may be somewhat more of a problem since there is no heavy rain in sight for the rest of the week and that "if we don't get much in the line of rain, with the storms, we may end up with some lightning fires."

During the summer, Musclow says, fires do not spread as fast as they would in spring, but they are much harder to put out. He adds that it also depends on what type of tree is involved in a fire. Evergreen burns quickly while hardwoods, which are the type most prominent in Haliburton county, will retard ignition and burn much more slowly.

Campers and blueberry pickers who burn out bush have accounted for 32% and 34% of the fires respectively so far this season. The rest have been caused through miscellaneous accidents.

Weekends are generally the most common time fires

Wilberforce festival starts Friday

The concession booths are up, the midway is being prepared, and the food is being brought in for the fourth annual Wilberforce Country Good Times festival slated to take place this weekend.

The three-day long celebrations are being sponsored by the hamlet and have been organized by the Wilberforce recreation executive, Sharon Hunter, Monmouth clerk, says that this year's festivities promise "to be as great as in previous years." Things get under way at 6:00 p.m. when the midway, concession booths, and the trade and home show in the curling club open. A beauty contest is slated for 6:30 in the Lloyd Watson Memorial Centre. Country and western music can be heard in the arena at 8:30 p.m., where a special occasion permit has been obtained.

The rock music of "Drag River" will be entertaining the teens at the Lloyd Watson

Centre at 9:00 p.m.

The fun and festivities continue throughout Saturday with things getting started at 10 a.m. in the curling club, where the trade and home show will continue. For those with a sweet tooth, a bake sale will be held at the Lloyd Watson Centre at the same time.

The midway and concession booths, as well as food stands will open at noon.

Cash is stolen in breakin

A thief who used a ladder to reach an upper window stole $816 in cash from Medley's Snack Bar in Haliburton early Sunday morning.

Once inside the premises, the thief forced an office door, causing $25 damage, according to Minden OPP. Three envelopes containing cash business receipts totally $816 were taken from a desk in the office. Police say $250, which had been left in the till, was untouched.

The incident remains under investigation by Minden OPP constable Mike Maher.

the sum of $75.00 to the Minden-Library Committee being the auditorium rental for the fund raising event held on July 8, 1978.

The Ministerial Assoc. will be allowed to use the Municipal Council Chambers on Saturday, July 22nd, 1978 at a nominal sum of $25.00.

Funds sought for museum

Contributions toward the private sector funding of the new Haliburton County Pioneer Museum in Glebe Park are coming in slowly, according to building committee chairman Gerry Dawson, and a major push for funds in the form of letters accompanying municipal tax bills is expected to get underway within the next two weeks.

Work on the $119,000 museum building is nearing completion, with total project costs expected to be $200,000. Some $47,000 in private sector contributions will be needed to complete the project.

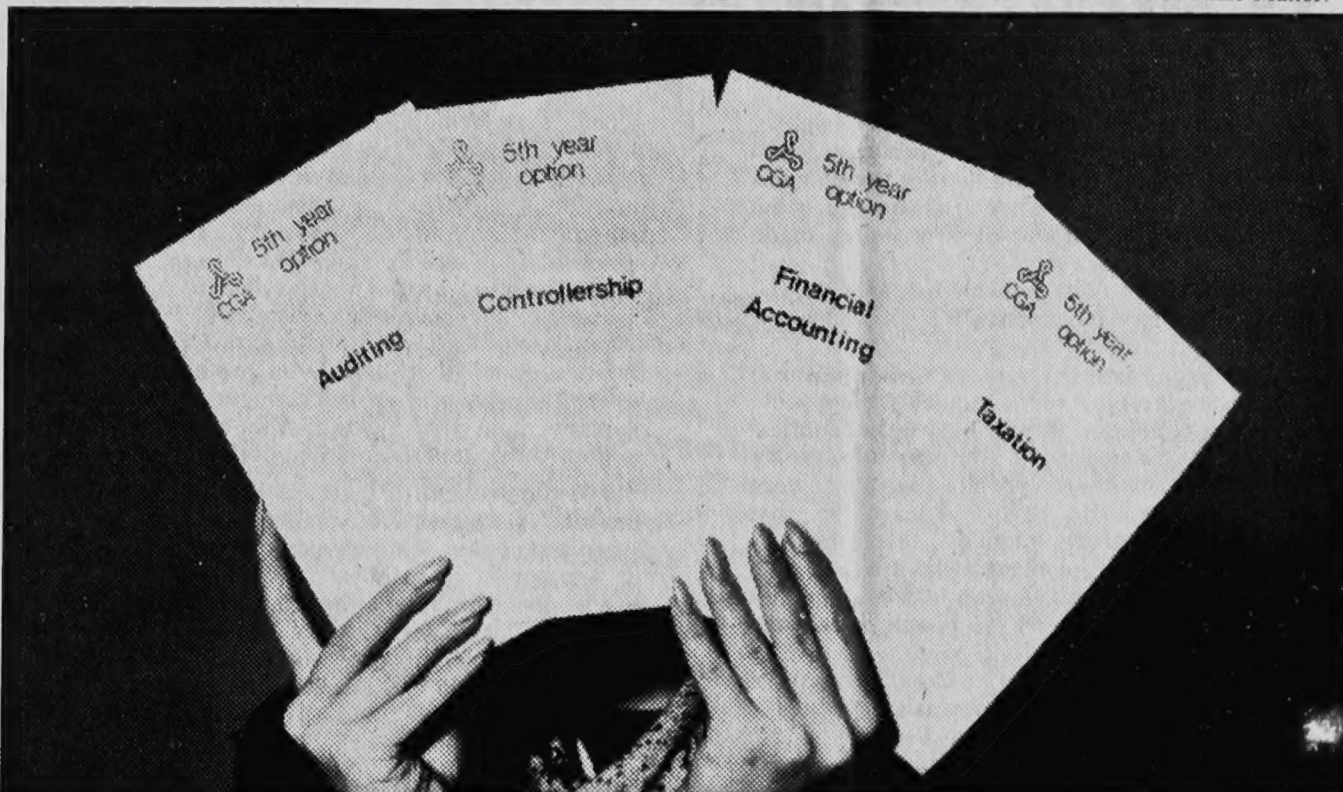

The museum is slated to open next spring, replacing the current museum in the Reid House in Haliburton village.

Good people

Governments' whether large or small, are nothing more than people, and the qualities those people possess make up the qualities of the governments they form. The more open, honest and aware the members of an elected body, the more open, honest and aware that body will be in its functions. For that reason, the responsibility voters have to choose the people who represent them is a significant one. That responsibility begins long before the day of an election. It begins even before the candidates for a particular office are declared.

This November, voters across the province will go to the polls to elect new municipal governments. Those voters will be asked to make choices about the ideas and beliefs of the individuals seeking office, and to elect the person they feel is best suited for the job.

The choice can only be a meaningful one, however, if candidates with exceptional qualities and skills are on the ballot. Ensuring that such candidates run is at least partly the responsibility of every citizen, and it is a responsibility that must be recognized and acted upon long before the day on which the votes are cast.

The political process and the demands placed on a politician have changed over the years. There was a time when a firm handshake, a knowledge of names and an air of sincerity were sufficient to get an individual elected. And it is possible that sincerity and honesty were once all that was really necessary to do the job adequately, if not exceptionally. Sincerity and honesty are still desirable qualities both inside and outside the political arena, but politicians must have other attributes as well if the governments they form are to be effective.

Politics have become much more complicated than they once were. Once, municipalities largely looked after themselves, with little help from larger governments. Today intergovernmental affairs are a complex matter of grants, studies, plans and laws. Knowing how to use government programs to best advantage and how to deal effectively with larger governments is a vital part of a municipal politician's job.

Running the affairs of a municipality differs little from running a business. Money collected from taxpayers is spent by councils, just as businesses must spend money to make a profit. And just as in business, how a council spends money is the test of its effectiveness. Councils are charged with a responsibility to use the taxpayers money wisely and creatively. If they do so, the municipality will grow and improve. If they do not, the municipality will stand still, and may be left far behind other, more dynamically led municipalities. If an opportunity to work in harmony with the federal or provincial government is missed, it may not come again. That is why it is vital that municipal politicians be good business people, able to use money well, and to seek it from available sources.

Good governments cannot come about unless there are good candidates willing to serve in them. It is up to the voters to ensure that people capable of doing a job well are there to seek a position when the November election comes.

It may seem a long way off, but the time to begin preparations for that election is now. If there are people in a community who would be effective on councils, but who have not declared an interest in serving on council, they should be sought out, and should be asked to consider running. Experience is not vital in municipal politics. Intelligence and wisdom are, however.

Voters should begin to consider who is wise and capable, who has sound ideas and a creative approach to people and situations, who can lead a municipality.

It isn't too early to begin ensuring that a strong slate of candidates will be on the ballot when the November election comes.

The effectiveness of the next municipal government depends on it.

Welcome addition

A group of people working together for a common cause will almost always accomplish more than any number of individuals can when they work on their own. It's a fact that is entrenched in the structures of society, and it's a situation that ought to be encouraged.

Earlier this year, several members of Haliburton's business community formed a committee to study the possibility of improving the village's main street shopping section. They hoped to come up with a plan that would have a unified theme for improvements, and that would tackle some of the major problems shoppers encounter.

The committee is the first step toward the formation of a business association in the village, and Haliburton merchants should be willing to take the second step.

A business association would be a welcome addition to the affairs of Haliburton village.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Every country has distinctive features. Certainly Canada's vastness and variety make it somewhat unique. Haliburton County offers its fair share of our country's mosaic. Still it is not just physical Geography, with all its beautiful grandeur, on which we must rely. Rather it is the ways in which we, the residents and the visitors, apply ourselves within our natural endowment that will make our country and our county of special worth. Whether it is the Black Forest of Germany or the Black Hills of the U.S.A. it is not their scenes alone that give them special recognition but rather the actions and behaviour of the people there which enable us to appreciate them.

Haliburton County is well located in Canada and in Ontario. As the population moves northward, and surely it will, it could well become the cross-roads of the country. Slowly, too, Haliburton is being recognized as possibly the most picturesque part of the province. Realizing these "facts", in which direction should we be taking this County? Possibly most people believe that the polluting kind of industry should be barred from our lakes and hills yet if we wish to develop and to maintain a good living-standard for all our inhabitants then more employment opportunities must be available. This desire could be accomplished by cultivating and promoting this area as the special "Fine Arts" Centre of Ontario. Already Victoria County has introduced its annual County Spring Festival. Similarly Haliburton County could have its Fall Festival which could coincide with the Festival of Colour. However, if there is to be a difference between those two festivals, then it should be that Haliburton will draw upon its local talent of which there is plenty. The current Art Show, the Annual Festival of Fun and similar county events attest to the fact that this county is well endowed with artistic abilities.

Editor's Notebook

by Len Pizze

Before I started working in the weekly newspaper business a year and a half ago, I had very little interest in politics. I knew the name of the prime minister of course, and of a handful of his cabinet ministers, but the decisions they made never seemed to touch me. And since I didn't own property, and thus didn't pay municipal taxes, the affairs of the city's council were no concern of mine.

When I began as a reporter for a weekly in Huron County however, I had to learn quickly about some of the ways of politics. I had to learn that political decisions play a real part in the lives of ordinary people, even if those people like me, were unconcerned about it. I had to learn too, that politicians, even at the municipal level, must be experts in the art of diplomacy if they are to survive very long in office. And I soon learned too, that councils are as various as the people who make them up.

One council in particular stands out by virtue of its difference. It was a township council I occasionally had to cover in my first newspaper job, and it was, to put it mildly, an experience to watch that council work.

It met twice a month, and none of its members seemed in much of a hurry to get the job at hand out of the way. They liked to take their time about it, to savour the experience of getting together. It was a social time.

They met in the evenings, and they brought a lunch with them. Each councillor took a turn at having his wife prepare the lunch, and they would get around to it at about 10.30 p.m. By the time a reporter would be frustrated and angry and ready to walk out of the meeting, because the council seemed to be getting absolutely nowhere. But just then, out would come the lunch, and they would offer some to you, and you couldn't hate them anymore. I always thought of their wives spending hours making sandwiches and cakes and coffee and when I thought of that, I felt strangely better about the whole situation. It made the councillors seem less exasperating somehow.

They were farmers, every one, and not the sort of farmers who are really businessmen dealing in food. They were the old style farmers, who took their time, and who didn't want to rush anything too much.

I learned a lot about grass roots diplomacy from them. The idea was that none of them took a stand on anything. If something came up for discussion, they had to get the feel of the thing first, to gauge the ideas of the other "boys", as they always said, before they'd say what they thought. It was like watching them stand by the back fence with a straw in their teeth, talking to a neighbour.

You didn't want to take a stand on anything, because that would either make you seem like a smart guy, or it would put you in opposition to one or another of the "boys". No, it had to be harmonious, and it took them a long time to get it all sorted out. They'd say, if they were asked to endorse a resolution, or to approve a by-law change, "Well, I don't know about that now, it could be good and it could be bad. "What do you think Jim?" Jim would sit for a while, and maybe scratch his head, and he'd say he didn't know either. And so it would go around the table, until someone finally made an attempt, however tentative, to put a little bit of opinion after the "I don't know."

They sat 'til two or three in the morning conducting business that should have taken an hour. But they got the business done, and though the council could hardly be called progressive, it did manage to run the township reasonably well.

In Haliburton County, we are much luckier. There are not councils that work as exasperatingly as that council in Huron County did, though the principals of grass roots diplomacy still apply.

Municipal governments have a significant effect on the lives of the people they serve, and the strength or weakness of councils should be of vital concern to the people who elect them. If there's one thing I've learned in working for a newspaper, it's that politics cannot, and should not, be ignored.

The summer season of Carnivals and big events will be kicked off to-night (Wednesday, July 19th) when the Haliburton Legion will be presenting their 33rd annual carnival and parade. This year's big event will be something special when they celebrate 50 years of Legion service in Haliburton. In past years the Legion carnival parade has left a great deal to be desired but this year the Legion have made up their minds that they give the people a parade which will be well worth watching. Carnival chairman Murray Fearrey has informed us that the parade will feature at least three bands possibly two pipe bands and a brass band, with floats and marching units. The parade will get underway at 7.00 p.m. An added attraction before the parade and starting at 6.30 p.m. will be an R.C.A.F. Fly-Pass. The rides will start at the fairgrounds at 1.00 p.m. The C.G.E. Pipe Band from Peterborough will present a concert at the fairgrounds following the parade. In the new curling arena you can look for hamburgs, pop, games of chance and live entertainment featuring the Ike Kelneck Band. Dance and refreshments. Bingo will be held in the Legion Auditorium starting at 8.00 p.m. At 11.00 p.m. it will be the draw for the Ford Bronco. So lets all join with the Legion to-night and help them to celebrate their 50th Anniversary.

The stretch of highway known as the Minden By-Pass has been widened and resurfaced and most of it is now four lanes. It's just like driving on the 401.

Mayor David Logan of Lindsay has been given the go-ahead by council to see what can be done about showing some of Lindsay's history in an authentic way. He suggested that the town, lease the log cabin which once belonged to Ontario Premier Leslie Frost, then establish a committee made up of the area school history department heads. He explained that this committee would appoint a student to live on the property in the summer and show the cabin to tourists.

Urban affairs Minister Andre Ouellet has announced the release of more than one and a half million dollars in federal funds to assist in the construction of a sewage treatment project for the village of Minden. The federal government monies will help to pay for a sewage treatment plant and main pumping station near the intersection of Orde Street and the Bobcaygeon Road, an auxiliary pumping station on North Water Street, and approximately 64 metres (210 feet) or 152 mm (6-inch) diameter force main. The funds are in the form of a Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation loan of $783,306.00 and a CMHC grant of $762,808.00, both to the Ontario Ministry of the Environment.

Our friend Art Ward, owner of Wig-A-Mog Inn at Haliburton and vice chairman of Tourism Ontario was interviewed recently on CHEX TV Peterborough. The main topic of the interview was the Ministry of Industry and Tourism's "We Treat you Royally" campaign. Art made it quite clear, we are all behind this program 100 percent. He concluded his interview by saying that we've got a lot going for us "We've just got to make sure that we keep our smiles up front. Art who is a very successful businessman and a real booster for the Highlands of Haliburton is to be congratulated on the wonderful way that he handled himself on this program. We have to agree that we have to keep our smiles up front but we have to add a little more. We can treat our visitors and cottagers royally by going out of our way to give them good service at our place of business, to give them proper direction when they are lost, stop and have a chat with them and greet them with a smile.

We are pleased to see that Dr. J. W. Vander Wekken has opened the Haliburton Veterinary Clinic. The clinic is situated on Highway 530, 2 miles east of Carnarvon.

A well known Lindsay citizen and member of the Lindsay business community, Albert Roy Broom died recently at the Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay in his 68th year. Roy Broom was an active partner of Frost Insurance Agencies for 30 years retiring in 1974, remaining as a partner in the business. I didn't know Roy personally but always heard his name mentioned by the late Frank Hodgson who was also connected with Frost Insurance Agencies.

Just recently we touched on the matter of household garbage being placed in the Department of Highlands barrels as well as those put out by the various municipalities. May we remind local citizens, visitors and cottagers that these barrels are for the use of litter only. Household garbage is meant to be taken to the local dumps. Please keep this in mind.

Well it's all aboard for Wilberforce this coming weekend for the annual Country Good Times weekend. It will be held this Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 21-22-23. The weekend will feature a midway, concession booths, food trade and home show, beauty contest, country and western jamboree, teen dance, bake sales, monster parade, amateur contest, country good times ball, pancake breakfast, model airplane demonstration, library open house and a horse draw. This is just a few of the big attractions and there is plenty more. It's this weekend for the County Good Times at Wilberforce. Plan now to attend.

The next time you visit Extensicare take a few minutes to look over the colored photos of the events and people that adorn the walls in the corridors at Extensicare. These pictures are really interesting to look at.

The Kawartha Cavalier Drum and Bugle Corps who have played for many parades in Haliburton County in the past made and excellent showing in Johnsonburg, Pennsylvania, on the occasion of its first international competition in four years. They took second place - a full five points ahead of the closest American Corps.

From the Chamber

by Bob Stinson

To date four segments of the films produced on the features of the Haliburton Highlands have been aired on the "Betty and Friends" show hosted by Betty Thompson on C.K.C.O. - T.V. Those who have seen the shows have been very enthusiastic in their comments and the Chamber of course is very pleased to receive this very worthwhile publicity for the Highlands. There are five more segments to be shown and they are as follows: Friday, July 21 - The late Napier Simpson Jr. at Blagdon Hill, Wed. August 2 - A visit with the senior citizens at Hyland Crest, Friday, August 4 - A tour of the Leslie Frost Resources Centre, Tuesday, August 8 - Interviews with George Hardy, Allan Bagg, and Ron Curry and film of the Haliburton Pioneer Museum both present and future. Tuesday, August 15 - Interviews with Sinc. Nesbitt and Gerald Bain showing some of the accomplishments of Stanhope Township. Please note that the Stanhope Township film has been re-scheduled from July 26 to the dated shown of August 15.

This Friday's show in particular should be of considerable interest to all those in the county who appreciate some of the efforts put forth on our behalf by the late Napier Simpson Jr. This show was filmed at Blagdon Hill only a week before Mr. Simpson's untimely death in an air craft accident in Newfoundland. We are shown scenes from and told of the considerable history of Blagdon Hill, the remote estate in Stanhope Township that was completely restored by Mr. Simpson.

We Treat You Royally

The "We Treat You Royally" campaign instituted by the Ministry of Industry and Tourism has gotten off to a good start and from comments received we do believe the majority of our members are certainly treating our visitors royally. A number of members commented that they only received one or two identification buttons in their kit and they wished to obtain more for their staff. Arrangements have been made with the Ministry office to obtain a supply of these buttons at the Chamber office and we will be pleased to supply these for members of your staff on request. We urge all our members to get on the band wagon with this campaign and see to it that the Haliburton Highlands treats visitors more royally than anyone else.

Graham's Shell Expand

While in the Gooderham area last week we dropped in on "Graham's Shell" on Highway 503 just west of the Buckhorn Road. We were surprised to find they had added a large dining room to their original snack bar service and not only is it very attractive and well appointed, but we understand from those in the area that their serving some very delicious meals there. This expansion program apparently took place last fall so we offer our belated congratulations for this new undertaking and best wishes for its success.

Jazz Festival

This year's big blues and jazz festival in Minden takes on a slightly different format. It will be held in the form of a concert and dance August 5 running from 9 P.M. to 1 A.M. The headline entertainment is Jim McQuarg and the Midnight Special who play Dixieland contemporary and light jazz. This seven piece band was the feature entertainment at the New Orleans Pavilion at the Toronto Caravan recently.

Country Good Times

This is the weekend they pull all the stops in Wilberforce with their annual "Country Good Times". It starts Friday with a beauty contest, country jamboree and a teen dance. On Saturday they've got an enormous parade, a midway, amateur contest, exhibits throughout the day, and a Country Good Times Ball in the evening. Sunday morning they will have their pancake breakfast, a horse drawing contest, and exhibit of remote controlled airplanes. Folks from Monmouth are fast earning a reputation as one of the biggest little municipalities in the world when it comes to putting events of this type on.

Watch Those Bills

It's that time of year again when we are all busy and when we find a few moments to do our paper work we may be inclined not to look at it carefully enough. That's when the little bills from the "Classified Directory" that are commonly called "Look-a-like billings" can slip by. If you pay this particular invoice you will receive in return a listing in their directory which is circulated to only yourself and anyone else who happened to pay for a listing in it. There is no other known circulation. We respectfully suggest that you file these invoices in the "round file".

Did You Know

Yes, did you know there is still a large quantity of "In Quest of Yesterday" books by Nila Reynolds in stock at the County Office. Many of our visitors find these books extremely interesting and valuable to them as they give a very complete history of our area. Anyone wishing to retail these books who is not already doing so may obtain a supply by calling Winn Lahay at the County Office, 286-1111.

Pic of the Past

Our Pic of the Past this week shows Jim Iles of Haliburton standing in front of a lumberman's sleeping cabin during logging days during the winter of 1940. It was a rule in the cabin that the first one who woke up with the cold biting him had to put more wood on the fire. Jimmy who is now retired and lives in Haliburton at one time owned his own truck and drew logs to the Standard Chemical Plant which was then in operation in Donald. Many of you will remember Jim when he was one the stars of the Haliburton Huskies when they were winning all the silverware at the various hockey tournaments. His great speed and his dazzling hard shot would bring the crowd to their feet whenever he was on the ice. Our thanks to Lena Clarke of Eagle Lake for submitting this photo.

Bill Smiley

By the time this appears in print, I'll probably be flogging around Europe, irritable, exhausted and disgruntled, muttering, "What am I doing here, bucketing around on a bus, gawking at cathedrals, and listening to the yammering of a horde of people of whose language I know eight words on a good day?"

And I'll go on. I know it. "What am I doing blowing half of my life's savings junketing around with a bunch of other middle-aged has-beens, when I could be back home right now, playing golf with a bunch of middle-aged has-beens?"

"I must be out of my mind, paying $24.00 for two hamburgers and a bottle of wine, when I could be out at Foster's picking my own strawberries and going home to a great chicken dinner that costs about $2.00, with tiny new boiled potatoes, green onions, new carrots and fresh green beans."

"I could be sitting in my own back yard right now, looking at the Lear-like oaks, sniffing my neighbours' blowers, contemplating a late-afternoon swim, and sucking occasionally on a cold ale, instead of sitting in this ruddy bus, looking at the other turkeys who took this trip, inhaling the fumes of gasoline, contemplating the folly of trips to Europe, and knowing I'm going to pay $1.25 for a Coke at our next stop, if we ever stop."

"We didn't go anywhere near Lille, so I couldn't look up Andree, but she's probably a fat old lady now, with a moustache. She was tending in that direction back then. And we didn't even go near Antwerp, so I missed seeing Tita. I wonder if she thought I'd stood her up that night, Friday the 13th of October, when I didn't show up? She'd have no way of knowing I'd been shot down that afternoon. Nice kid, and she said her old man had lots of money."

"I wonder if young Wilson, next door, is keeping the lawn cut. Thank the lord we had no cat to be fed this time. I wonder if Kim got a job. I wonder how The Boys are."

"That was some du we stayed in last night. The mattress was so lumpy I had to sleep on the floor, and the Old Lady didn't get a wink, she was so excited at those young Italians whistling at her and pinching her bum. She made me take pictures of the bruises, to show the girls back home."

"It wasn't as bad, though, as the night we crossed the North Sea to Holland in that converted barge they called a cruise ship. She must've lost ten pounds that night. They should have called it a crew's ship. They were the only ones who weren't tossing their trips with every roll."

"The Old Girl's been pretty decent though. She hasn't said more than four times a day, 'My God, I'll be glad when this is over.' And she insisted I'm not the most miserable man on the trip. She says I'm about one jump ahead of the mean old sod from Cleveland."

"About the only time she gets snarky is when I try my trilingualism out. I say to some young German blonde, 'Vie file uhr ist es, bitte?' The blonde laughs heartily, even though I've only asked her for the time of day, because of my accent, but my wife thinks I've cracked a dirty joke or something."

"Thank goodness we have our tickets home paid for. I'm going to seek out and kiss Trudeau on both cheeks when I get home, even if it makes me throw up. Canadian inflation is peanuts compared to what they have over here. Buck and a half for a cup of coffee. Sold my watch in Vienna after they gave me my bill at the bier garden. Sold my other pair of shoes this morning to an Italian entrepreneur after I'd taken a taxi ride to a fountain to throw some coins in it. Next item to go on the block is my wife's travelling-iron. It weighed three pounds when we started out, and now weighs fourteen."

"That tour guide is a dandy. He'll be a millionaire when he's thirty. In every city, he recommends a restaurant run by a cousin, at which the prices are way below average and the food way above. Whereas the reverse is true. They all serve the same Something - stew and want an arm and a leg."

"What am I doing here, on my way to another scabrous cathedral when I could be home out bass fishing with Dalt Hudson or on the Bruce Peninsula fishing speckled trout or wandering through the trees on the back nine of the golf course?"

"Or just sleeping in, if I felt like it, instead of having to huddle out of the sack at six to join that sickeningly cheerful tour group at seven and climb on that bloody bus to charge another 800 miles down some foreign road?"

"Never again, boy, never again. Next time I want to visit the sights and sounds of Europe, not to mention the smells (Ah, Venice), I'll read a good travel book."

"Who talked me into this, anyway? Let's see. It wasn't the travel agency. It wasn't my wife, who has hated every minute of it. Now I remember. It was Frank Powell, a colleague, who did the same trip when the Canadian dollar was way up and the English pound was way down. I can hardly wait to get back. I'm going to punch that Powell right on the nose."

Report from Queens Park

by MPP John Eakins

Amendments to the Mental Health Act were given Third Reading in the final hours of the last session: amendments affecting civil commitment, confidentiality and the role of the Public Trustee.

With respect to civil commitment, the previous legislation provided that a patient could be admitted to a psychiatric facility if such hospitalization were required in the interests of his own safety or the safety of others. The word "safety" is the key. This situation has been changed under Section 2 of Bill 19, the new legislation, which states that a person can only be sent for assessment if the examining physician has reasonable cause to believe that the person

(a) has threatened or attempted or is threatening or attempting to cause bodily harm to himself; (b) has behaved or is behaving violently towards another person or has caused or is causing another person to fear bodily harm from him; or (c) has shown or is showing a lack of competence to care for himself.

And if in addition the physician is of the opinion that the person is apparently suffering from mental disorder of a nature or quality that likely will result in,

(d) serious bodily harm to the person; (e) serious bodily harm to another person; or (f) imminent and serious physical impairment of the person.

This amendment gave rise to considerable controversy, especially vocal being the Canadian Civil Liberties Association, Doctors and the Council of Health.

Under the previous legislation, a person found to have a disease or disability of the mind severe enough to require hospitalization, either in the interest of his or her own safety, or the safety of others, could be confined for a period of up to 30 days on the application of a single physician. The new legislation provides that when a physician completes the commitment certificate, the patient can be taken into a psychiatric facility for assessment, and can be detained there for a maximum of 120 hours. During that period, the individual must be either released, admitted informally (voluntarily) or admitted involuntarily.

If a Certificate of Involuntary Admission is to be issued, a physician other than the one who completed the application will have to conduct the assessment. When a person comes to an institution on a certificate, the certificate is to be reviewed by the person in charge of the psychiatric institution, to ensure that it is in order. The patient is to be advised of his rights, and an attending physician who completes a Certificate of Involuntary Admission or a certificate of renewal must give or transmit a notice in writing of completion and filing of the certificate to the patient and to the area director for the area, in accordance with The Legal Aid Act, in which the psychiatric facility is located.

Previously individuals admitted to a psychiatric facility had to be examined, as quickly as possible, to determine their competency to manage their estates. Where they were incompetent, a Certificate of Incompetence was issued to the Public Trustee, who assumed responsibility on behalf of the patient. Now this has been extended to psychiatric out-patients who were previously unable to qualify for the help of the Public Trustee. The new legislation also provides for the extension of the trusteeship of a person's estate by the Public Trustee where the Supreme Court is satisfied that the person will continue to be incompetent to manage his estate.

Although Bill 19 received approval on third reading on June 23, it will not come into effect until it has been proclaimed.

McKeough wants input from Ontario residents

Changes proposed in Line Fences Act

Darcy McKeough, Treasurer of Ontario, wants to hear from all residents of Ontario interested in the proposed 1978 Line Fences Act.

The Act was introduced by McKeough, Minister of Intergovernmental Affairs, in June.

"The Government looks forward to receiving and discussing comments and recommendations for changes to this Bill over the summer months, and to consideration by the Legislature in the Fall," said McKeough.

The major reason for the new act is the need to provide a simpler and quicker method for settling fencing disputes in both rural and urban areas. A line fence is a legal term which applies to a fence built on a boundary line between two properties.

The proposed act, if passed, will replace the current Line Fences Act which has been in existence since 1913. However, the whole issue of line fences and the resolution of disputes dates back even further.

By an Act passed in 1793 in the second session of the first provincial parliament of Upper Canada which met at Niagara, provision was made for the appointment of not less than two or more than six persons to serve the office of Fence Viewers in each parish, township, reputed township or place. Acts were subsequently passed in 1834, 1845, 1859, 1868, and 1874 respecting line fences with the 1913 act really reenacting the 1874 legislation. Since then, there have been only minor amendments.

Under the proposed act, the distinction between occupied and unoccupied lands is being removed. Moreover a line fence will only be mandatory where one adjoining owner wants a fence. If the two owners cannot reach agreement, one owner may simply notify the clerk of the local municipality that he wants the fence-viewers to arbitrate the dispute. If, however, the municipal council has passed a by-law providing that the clerk is not to be involved, the owner will have to arrange the arbitration himself as with the present act.

It is also proposed that the options of the fence-viewers in making the award be clarified and broadened, and that an appeal from the fence-viewers' award by either owner be heard in small claims court, rather than county or district court. Another proposal is for a revision of the enforcement and cost recovery procedures. If one owner fails to obey the award and the other owner does the work and wants to recover the value of that work, the fence-viewers will reconvene to certify the amount owed him by the defaulting owner. This will remove the need for him to take action in the small claims court.

Also in addition to the methods in the current act, it is proposed that if the municipal council passes a by-law, one owner may collect the funds owed, by the defaulting owner, from the municipal treasurer. The Municipality will then collect the amount from the defaulting owner as taxes with interest.

McKeough said "the proposed revisions are necessary in order to deal with present-day circumstances."

Robert Welch appoints French co ordinator

John Eakins, M.P.P. (Victoria-Haliburton) has been informed by the Honourable Robert Welch, Minister of Culture and Recreation, of the appointment of the Ministry's first French Language Services Co-ordinator, Claire Pageau.

The concept of French Language Services Co-ordinator was proposed by the Council for Franco-Ontarian Affairs. The Ministry of Culture and Recreation is one of five ministries which have created positions for Co-ordinators to help ministries improve programs and services for Franco-Ontarians.

"The French Language Services Co-ordinator", Mr. Welch said, "will work with Ministry staff to improve the delivery of our programs to Franco-Ontarians across the province. We are particularly fortunate that Ms. Pageau's own experience and background have given her a great empathy for our Ministry's responsibilities."

Eakins said this is another step by the Ontario Government to fulfil their commitment to provide French Language Services where population and need demand.

Fastball fans thrilled at Harcourt

Gregg Madill, an NHL referee for the past six seasons, has been putting in a two week stint at Haliburton Hockey Haven instructing others in rule interpretation and refereeing scrimages.

An NHL ref's life: it's hectic but rewarding

by Bill Davis

Ask Gregg Madill, N.H.L. Referee, about the toughest game he has called and his reply would probably be "Them All". They're all the same, only dates and places change.

Madill has six seasons as an N.H.L. official under his belt and already he is a veteran of many episodes, and has put a lot of mileage on his luggage.

Madill said he travels in excess of 100,000 miles a year and gets home to be with his family in his native Oshawa about every 10 days.

Seven years ago, Madill was an official with the O.M.H.A. and O.H.A. working out of Oshawa, doing five games a week as well as holding down a day time job with the car assembly plant in Oshawa.

At that time he was invited, along with 34 other amateur officials, to attend the N.H.L. training camp in Toronto. From this group six officials, including Madill, were sent back for one year of grooming. The following year Gregg Madill was wearing the orange and black crest of the N.H.L.

Madill will tell you that the first year was quite an endurance test as he travelled nearly 150,000 miles and was home about every 20 days for a two or three day stop over. That year, Madill refereed in the I.H.L., A.H.L., Central League, as well as the Quebec Junior and Western Canada Junior leagues.

Madill admits that the life of an official is hectic at times, but he wouldn't want to do anything else. Most games that officials work there are at least one of four supervisors in attendance and some times Scotty Morrison, head supervisor, will be in attendance. Morrison assigns the officials at least two weeks in advance so that the officials can make their own flight arrangements.

Like hockey players, N.H.L. officials have a training camp in Toronto each September. They are required to go through a total fitness examination and extensive rule session training. During the season, two seminars are held. During the recent playoffs Madill was the back up man in the first two games of the Toronto-New York series.

Madill says he anticipates that hockey is starting to return to the good, clean, hard hitting game. The clutch and grab style is on its way out. Madill says the only aspect of the game that remains consistent from game to game is the rule interpretation by the officials.

Respect is earned by officials by being consistent in their calls of rule interpretations. Players know how each referee calls the game and they know what they can and can't get away with. Madill says that if a referee is consistent in his calls he will quickly gain the respect of players and coaches. The season for referees is 75 games plus exhibition games and playoffs.

Madill is presently putting in a two week stint at the Haliburton Hockey Haven helping with instruction on rule interpretation and officiating scrimmage games. Come September Madill will be back in the familiar striped jersey of the N.H.L. Officials in preparation for the 78-79 season where once again the familiar cat calls will reach his ears as he sends the crowds favourite to the "sin bin" for an infraction of the official playing rules.

Between 1500 and 2000 people showed up at the Harcourt Fun Fair and Baseball Tournament this past weekend to eat, drink, be merry and to watch some fine industrial league baseball.

Donna Burroughs, chairman of the fair said "the whole weekend was a real success". Thirteen teams competed in the baseball tournament, which took place over a period of three days last week-end.

The weather stayed agreeable for the tournament, but it clouded over somewhat during Saturday's games. "It was better for the players however", said Burroughs.

A draw took place later on in the festivities for a trip of the winner's choice valued up to $1200. Doris Hogan of Highland Grove was the lucky winner.

Safety, speed and accuracy were the criteria the judges were looking for in the log falling competition, Saturday afternoon.

Winner of the event was Tom Coghlan of Harcourt, who won a chainsaw chain donated by Bell Marine at Harcourt, which also supplied the prizes for second and third place.

A three way tie for second place was broken by the toss of a coin. Wren Hughes of Harcourt was awarded the prize, a five gallon fuel can.

Chuck Main of Harcourt took third place, winning a gallon of chainsaw oil.

Faces twisted, and muscles rippled when some of the ball teams took to competing with each other at tug-of-war. The eight famous Bain brothers were in top form Saturday, placing second in the ball tournament with their team, West Eagle, beating all of their opponents at tug-of-war in the best two out of three matches. London was to meet West Eagle in the final, but didn't show up. Members of the West Eagle team each received free dinner passes to the roast beef supper in the community centre.

A trophy will also have their teams name inscribed on it.

Over 240 people at a time watched the ball games and thrilled to the finals for the 'A' division when Belleville beat out West Eagle, 5-1, in an exciting match. In the B championships, Minden swamped Mount Albert 7 to 1.

It's a race to the bag in one of the many fastball competitions in Harcourt, Saturday. Pictured is a West Eagle teammate stealing third while a Bancroft IGA opponent waits for the ball. West Eagle went on to win the game and finished second overall in the tournament.

Got him! A first baseman makes the grab just a split second before his opponent reaches the bag. Thirteen teams showed up in Harcourt on the weekend and played before crowds of up to 250.

Minden wins last nine games

Minden Srs. winning streak still stands in ladies ball

Monday night the Minden Seniors travelled to Haliburton with their nine game winning streak on the line. After the first inning the Minden team thought they were in for their first loss of the season, but the strong bats of the Minden team, led by the powerful hitting of Ann Hewson, Joan Paul, Nilda Cully and Helen Burk, led the Minden team to a 29-7 win. Ann Hewson was the winning pitcher while Nancy Maughan took the loss.

Wilberforce travelled to Minden to tangle with the Minden Jrs. on Monday night. With Wilberforce coming up on top to beat the Minden Jrs., Bonnie Demato took the win while Donelda Danelko took the loss for the Minden Jrs.

Tuesday night Gooderham ladies played in Minden only to be beaten by the Minden Srs. 28-8. The Minden Srs. had strong hits by Caroline Anderson, hitting a home run in her first game for the Srs. Nelda Cully also hit a home run for the home team while Joan Paul, Helen Burk and Jan Felchitt all hit triples to help the Minden Srs. to their eleventh straight win. Nelda Cully was the winning pitcher while Wanita Hunter took the loss.

On Wednesday night Carnarvon came up with a big win over Wilberforce led by the strong hitting of Sharon Harrison who had three home runs for the Carnarvon ladies. Darlene and Barbara Barnhart also hit home runs to help Carnarvon to an easy 27-5 win over the Wilberforce team.

On Thursday night, Wilberforce went to Gooderham. The Gooderham team came up with their strongest game, only to be beaten 25-16. If someone would help the Gooderham ladies they could certainly be a contender in the play-offs.

News from Extendicare

by Dr. O.W. Anderson

We were glad to learn this Monday morning that Mrs. Elizabeth McIntosh has left on a two week holiday. She is a very kind lady and helpful to other lady residents. We wish her the very best of a good time.

There were four movies this week, the first showing "porcupine quill craft work" in particular by a lady indian of the reserve on the Eastern end of Manitoulin Island. Leaving the porcupine hide in water for a time the quills can be plucked from it like feathers, and subsequently worked into ornaments almost with impunity and making quite attractive objects which are sold as Indian craft. The second showed an interesting way of disposing of a motley little of kittens, the third a few glimpses of the Pioneer Village near Kingston, the fourth a military tattoo on Signal Hill, Newfoundland.

We learn that Charlie Rumbelow has taken off for a week, no doubt to incidentally do some fishing. At any rate we hope he enjoys himself.

This Tuesday morning one of the Canadian Voyageur gentlemen who are on a canoe trip from East to West was being interviewed on the radio and was heard to refer to a Native Canadian lady as a squaw. Surely that word with all its slang words should go into history and be discarded.

We had a pleasant surprise visit from the Allsaw Fellowship Ladies Group who sang and conducted a brief evangelistic service. Among them were Mrs. Elsie McPhail, narrator, Mrs. Ruth McNight, speaker, Mrs. Mary McNeil, Mrs. Lila Warburton and Mrs. Vicky Blakely from our hairdressing staff. It was a very nice gesture and service. Our Mrs. Flossie Burk was persuaded to be pianist for this group and made a fine job of it.

We are pleased to announce that Extendicare has invited the Senior Citizens Club, Haliburton and the Over Sixty Club to a lawn hot dog barbecue at 11:00 a.m. August 9. It seems that we may be shy enough lawn seating capacity, so any of you coming, if you think of it, it would help if you could bring a couple of lawn chairs. There will be shuffleboard, carpet bowling, lawn darts, horse shoe throwing, crokinole, besides the food. You should enjoy yourselves, at least we hope so.

There is quite a bussle of preparation for the coming Legion celebration with the building of a float. We surely must have something worthy to enter to justify our being in it, and there is little more we can do, but make an interesting entry.

Every one, or at least nearly everyone, is looking forward to the boat trip down the lakes, when the rain came on Thursday and washed it out. It is not called off altogether, so we can look forward to it some more.

Friday morning was our Devotional Period with Rev. Trevor Denny as our spiritual leader, and our Ms. Sheila Elston pianist for the singing. The theme for this service dealt with effect of mind on our bodies, incidentally having reference to Paul's mission and an observation that Paul did not fear getting old. The get together after the service in the activity room over tea or coffee and biscuits was equally enjoyable.

Because she was a member of our residence we mourn the death of Mrs. Augusta Borden. She was severely encumbered in distress and for that reason did not get to know us well. We pay our deepest sympathy to her next of kin.

The "Disability Resource Centre" located at St. Joseph's General Hospital in Peterborough is of much interest to us in that so many of us of necessity occupy wheel chairs and will continue to. They have provided us with a listing of all places of business or services in the City of Peterborough, showing for each what accommodation if any they provide for the severely handicapped or the occupants of wheel chairs for their information should they require to go there on business or for services. We congratulate them on how complete this listing is. They have sent us a copy of a letter addressed to the proposed museum for Haliburton expressing the hope they will make appropriate provisions in their new building. The listing mentioned above is in the office of Mrs. Donna Dillon or from Dr. Anderson, when he is here.

We see that Mrs. Elizabeth McIntosh and Charles Rumbelow have returned, none too worse from their vacation.

One of the younger ladies in the Haliburton Old Tyme fiddle and step dancing contest finishes her routine with a bang. Competitors of all ages attended.

Musical ensemble performs this week

On Monday evening, July 24, at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, a stunning ensemble of youthful instrumentalists and singers from Jamaica - representing several racial backgrounds, will be performing as part of our Summer Theatre '78 program.

The group is led by Father Ho Lung, a Roman Catholic priest. Father Ho Lung is a composer/musician whose contribution to music is well known in Jamaica and North America.

These musicians have just recently returned from a Caribbean tour, where "the reggae priest" wowed Trinidad" (Jamaica Daily Gleaner). They celebrate life in richly varied rhythms: calypso, mento, ballad and rock. Residents of the Haliburton Highlands will have a rare opportunity to enjoy some thing of the immensely creative Caribbean culture. Come bring your visitors meet your friends! Curtain time - 8:30 p.m.

Grade 8 graduation held

Forest fire activity in Canada during May remained low compared with seasonal averages, according to the Canadian Forestry Service's second monthly report for the summer season.

The total number of fires across Canada during the month was 1,646, affecting 20,000 hectares of forest land. In 1977, the corresponding figures were 3,270 fires and 57,000 hectares, while May averages for the decade 1968-77 are 1,898 fires and 134,000 hectares.

For the season so far this year, 1,792 fires have been reported, affecting 20,000 hectares of forest; last year's comparable figures were 4,374 fires and 211,400 hectares, while seasonal averages for the decade are 2,644 fires and 144,000 hectares.

These statistics are compiled monthly from April to October inclusive by the Forest Fire Research Institute of Environment Canada in Ottawa.

Gems of Truth

Cain and Abel - a Contrast

The eleventh chapter of Hebrews is sometimes called "God's Hall of Fame". In its contents we find the names of men and women from earliest days who achieved immortal fame by pleasing God and becoming acceptable to Him. The key to this kind of living is found in verse four where faith was coupled with conduct. Princes and bondslaves are among that number, but they all had the prevailing quality that they pleased God in that they walked "by faith".

A simple definition of "faith" could be that we believe a thing whether we understand it or not. However, that belief also calls for "action". God's Word records that devils believe and tremble, but they go right on being devils in spite of their belief and fear. This would show the "faith" that is rewarded is the incentive to "act" upon what one believes. There simply is no faith, true faith, separated from conduct. We can believe in or about the Lord Jesus when we give mental assent to the historical facts concerning Him, His life, and His work. But when this "belief" causes us to accept Him as our personal saviour from our personal sin, then and then only does it become true faith. Thus "faith is acting upon what you believe" whether fully understood or not.

God has always provided a test for faith. In the garden of Eden it was obedience to a command to abstain from the fruit of just one tree. In the days of Noah it was entrance into an ark, and in our day the test is the same as it was in the days of Abel. It hinges upon the "bringing of an acceptable offering" to God. Many people have the idea that there must have been a great difference between the characters of Cain and Abel, those first sons of Adam, since one was a murderer and the other a martyr to faith. However, such is not the case, since Cain became a murderer only after he rejected God's revelation concerning the acceptable way of approach to God.

In all His dealings with sinful men, God has never changed His fixed principle that only those who show contrition and humility by offering to God the blood of atonement, can be accepted into His forgiveness and grace. There is no exception to this principle in the entire record of God's contact with man, and how we need to take note of this in our day and age.

Abel knew this and so did Cain. The fact had been made clear to them by revelation. Indeed, when Cain offered on his altar a sacrifice of "sap" instead of blood, God plainly informed him that only a sin offering could open the way into pardon and peace. Men are prone to forget this. They desire to argue that Abel was more acceptable to God than Cain because he was superior in character, or had higher moral standards, or was more virtuous in conduct. Scripture refutes these errors in no uncertain terms. It was "faith" that made the difference Heb. 11:4, and it was by this offering he obtained mercy, and by which he received God's testimony that he had thus become righteous.

Cain, of course, did not understand all that God foresaw in the ordinance of shedding of blood, and no man really understood it until the death of Jesus revealed it on Calvary. But neither did Abel grasp what it was all about, but he acted upon what God had revealed and his obedience to that which he knew counted as faith and resulted in true righteousness.

From the lamb of Abel's offering to the Lamb of God, the will of God is made plain to all who desire to please Him. Thus it behooves us to offer to Him, by faith and obedience, the Blood of His Lamb as our only standard of acceptance with Him and righteousness will be imparted.

Glamorgan gets grants

The Township of Glamorgan has been granted $40,000 under the Ontario Home Renewal Program (OHRP). Grants totalling $532,207.00 have been allocated to 15 municipalities. Housing Minister Claude Bennett announced recently.

Stanhope notes

by Alex Stevenson

Stanhope residents will find it of interest to watch Channel eleven T.V. at 9:30 a.m. Friday July 21st., at which time a film entitled "Blagdon Hill" will be shown.

The film deals with this historic home, owned in recent years by the late Councillor B. Napier Simpson and Mrs. Simpson, and should prove of interest to those who appreciate any effort to preserve worthwhile links with the past as was done by the Simpson family when they acquired this property. Another film, on the same station at the same time, but on July 26th, will show points of interest in Stanhope Township. We think that those who can find time to view the shows will find them interesting and informative.

Stanhope's swimming program is moving along successfully with a total of 61 children registered for instruction in the various categories.

Senior Girls: Rosalee Little - Burnt River; Lynne Phillips - Kinmount; Jennifer Batty - Norland.

Mr. E. Cameron, Deputy Reeve, Township of Bexley presented the trophy donated by the Township of Bexley for highest points to the Cobocok Public School. Point totals resulted in the following placement:

Cocobok 146
Kinmount 135
Burnt River 113
Norland 89
Kirkfield 63

The writer has found it of interest to see the pre-beginners' class at work, since they range in age from two to four years, and the class consists of 15 of these youngsters. At this point the instructors encourage the children to float on their backs and also face down and in general to overcome their fear of the water.

The course covers the different classes from Pre-beginners to Seniors plus a class for the Bronze Medalist who will be eligible for the Life Saving certificate. There are six in this group at this time.

Mrs. Jan Barnes who is in charge of this program is ably assisted by Carolyn and Marilyn Kinsman and by Rob Dies. Mrs. Barnes also is responsible for organising a program for the children, to be carried out during the month of August after the close of the swim program.

The program will include sports, games and crafts, and some very interesting trips to the Leslie Frost Center for those nine years and over have been arranged.

We are advised by Township Clerk Gerald Bain that grants from the Young Canada Works program have helped to make the children's programs possible in this Township.

Another area which Gerald has made use of for the benefit of the Township was a grant to employ students on parks projects. The Stanhope Township Recreation Committee is sponsoring a Walk-a-thon to be held on the 19th of August (with a rain date for the 26th of August) and entry forms will be available at the Library, area stores and restaurants, and also at the Township Hall. Money raised will be used to augment the present fund for developing a recreation area in the Township.

Another candidate for municipal office is Mr. Bill

Barber who intends running for the office of Reeve in the November elections. Mr. Barber has spent much time in this area during the years prior to retiring and now is living here permanently. He spent many years in senior management positions and is confident that he can provide leadership in Council.

Jim Harrison the present Deputy Reeve will also be running for the Reeve's position and has the experience of several years as Deputy to rely on. Elgin Stouffer, present member of Council, and Harry Davis, a former Councillor are the other known candidates.

A new township resident, residing at the former Sisson property on highway #530, is Dr. Vander Wekken, who has set up his veterinary clinic here. The family will be a welcome addition to this area.

Norland Notebook

by Barbara Maunder

The weather cleared and the sun shone for the Norland Firefighter's Association Horse Draw on Saturday, July 8. The firemen and others worked long and well to fence the area of the park for the draw, to organize and man the games of chance and children's fish pond, to register the horse drawing teams, to set up a refreshment booth and to check the winners of the horse draw. The men, too, were responsible for the clean-up afterwards which entailed extra time and effort. To all who helped with the successful Horse Draw, many thanks. The first, second and third prize winners in the various draw classes were as follows: Heavy Class - Ingram Wessell, Joe McFeeters and Clarence Plumtree; Light Class: Doug Coad, John Lawrenson, and Jim Chynoweth; Ladies' Class - Isabel Wessell, April Lawrenson and Diane Chynoweth; and the Ponies Class Larry Greer, Jim Chynoweth Jr., and Doug Ellery. Blair Partridge of Oshawa was the lucky winner of the Raggedy Ann and Andy dolls, made and donated by Phyllis Le-Craw.

A warm welcome is extended to Peter and Linda Purcell who are the new owners of the former Easton's Red and White Store in Norland. As of Monday, July 17, the Purcells will be busy in our local supermarket. Mr. Purcell originally lived in Gooderham and assisted his father with a grocery store there, but more recently he and his wife have been living in Toronto.

As we welcome one couple, we must say a fond adieu to Mrs. Peg Nevison who has sold her home to the Purcells and will now be living in Lindsay. Peg's lovely soprano voice will be missed in the choir of the Norland United Church where we have enjoyed her singing each Sunday for some years. She has also been an active and willing worker as she gave of her time and talents to other local organizations. We wish her well in her new apartment in Lindsay and hope that she will return often to visit her many friends in the Norland area.

As a fund raising venture the newly formed Norland Athletic Club is having a Bake Sale in the Norland Community Hall on Saturday, July 22. The doors will open for the sale at 10:30 a.m. and all are cordially invited to attend and support our athletes in this worthwhile cause.

As we enjoy this lovely summer weather, perhaps it seems early to look ahead to a warm winter holiday during those bleak, cold months of January and February. The Ladies Auxiliary of the Firemen hope that you will think otherwise when you are asked to purchase a ticket for their "Bahamas Holiday for Two" Draw. The value of the draw is approximately $1,000.00, and is a week of rest and relaxation at the lovely Grand Bahamas Hotel and Country Club in Freeport for two people with all expenses paid including two meals a day. Only 1000 tickets will be sold, so your chances of winning are one in a 1000 making very agreeable odds for you to win. All of the members have tickets for sale at $5.00 a ticket, so buy yours today. The draw will be made at the Dance on Saturday, October 28, and the proceeds are for the Community Hall.

On Wednesday, July 26, Norland Women's Institute look forward to welcoming local and cottage people to their bazaar starting at 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. there will be tea served, baked goods, fresh garden produce, crafts, quilts, a penny table and a fish pond in which all may participate. This is an annual event that many attend so plan to be present in the Women's Institute Hall which is situated on Hwy. 503 just west of Hwy. 35.

Regular monthly meeting of Township Council was held on Tuesday, July 4 with Deputy-Reeve Mike Easton absent. Following business was transacted at the request of Marvin Watson, Council agreed to have the skating rink property where the present Fire Hall is situated, surveyed and fenced. The clerk was asked to write Morton Lomax and William Payne that it has been reported that construction is being carried out by the two parties without a building permit and that council wishes them to appear at the next meeting on Tuesday, August 1, to explain their actions prior to charges being laid. Severance application B-149-78, Ivy Boyce, for part of Lot 4, Conc. 8, Laxton was approved. People owning land along the road passing through lots 11, 12 and 13, Conc. 1, Laxton to be contacted by the clerk to learn their feelings about granting land for a 66 foot right-of-way. For those who are in accord, the agreements to be drawn up by Ronald Swain.

Jackpot Bingo every Monday night at 8:00 p.m. in the Norland Community Hall. Refreshment booth.

Rev. John Duncan will be guest minister at the Morning Service at 11:00 a.m. in the Norland United Church on Sunday, July 23.

Lots of bargains and a good selection of nearly new clothing and used articles at the Norland U.C.W. Opportunity Shop. Open each Tuesday and Saturday afternoon from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m. The shop is on the east side of Highway 35, just south of Highway 503, beside Norland Marine.

District News

Chatting with Irene

As I sit here to do the column my mind is blank. I've been flitting about so much this past week that no one could catch me at home. The flitting I enjoyed the most was when I went to one of the grandchildren's Birthdays. It was her third and she wanted it to go on for days. The funny part was when she came up to me and said "Grandma I'm Free now", then granda a big sigh.

I told you last week that there was a Book sale at the County Library, the time was wrong; and I am sorry. Time is 10 - 4; and date is July 24-28.

Guests with the Taylor Kernohans last week were Mrs. Jean Morrison of Toronto, and Mrs. Ida Cryderman of Oshawa.

Did you know that Camp Kandalore has a great Museum; there are a number of buildings which feature a lot of items, also Canoes. Why do you not take a drive up Hwy. 35 and see for yourself? Mr. and Mrs. G.A. (Sandy) Stewart and their friends celebrated the Stewarts Wedding Anniversary at Pine stone Inn last Saturday evening. All had a lovely time.

Mrs. Verna Jarvis visited with the Don Yorks at Eagle Lake on the weekend.

The A.C.W. had a very good bazaar and bake sale last Saturday. The winner of the Tete-a-Tete garden bench was Mrs. Ellen Holden, R.R. #2, Minden.

The Ern Voickeys and the Paul Cockburns visited with the Phil Robinsons last week. The Voickeys are from Cambridge and the Cockburns from Woodville.

When you received your tax bill there was a slip in it about the new Library-Museum. The one thing that was not mentioned was that all donations are tax deductible, also that donations may be sent to the Clerk-Treasurer, Minden, Ontario.

Mrs. Carreen Figuerredo of Binghamton, N.Y. has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. McCarey in Minden.

Mrs. Frankie Peel and daughters of B.C. have been visiting with Frankie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Len Hamilton, and other relatives in the village.

Harold Deacon drove a bus full of people to Norland last Sunday evening for the special evening there.

Mr. and Mrs. Foley Rubben of Kapuskasing are staying at the Northern Eagle for several weeks and are visiting with Velda's mother, Mrs. Irene Stamp and other friends and relatives during their holiday.

The surprise 40th Anniversary party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dollo was really a surprise for Mr. and Mrs. Ed Pettinger last Saturday; especially when they were given a silver tray by their friends.

Here is a very good dessert that you can have on hand: - Orange Cream Mold - 1 (2 oz.) pkg. dessert topping mix; 1 quart vanilla ice cream; 1 pt. orange sherbet; prepare topping mix according to directions, stir ice cream and sherbet to soften; then stir together along with dessert topping. Turn into 5 or 6 cup mold. Freeze over night or until firm (6 hours at least). Serves 6.

Mr. Gerald Welch of Florida, visited with his mother, Mrs. Edith Welch last week. How many of you have Pen-Pals? Last week Jeanne Sears had a very nice surprise when Frances Breeden, husband John and son Ron of Glenburnie, Maryland, arrived at Laurdie Cabins, Frances and Jeanne have been Pen-Pals for a number of years, and Frances was supposed to come here last year, but due to illness did not get here. Jeanne and Milt have been showing them some of the highlights of our beautiful county, and from all reports they will be sure to come back again. This makes good public relations, as well as lasting friendships.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dawson and Miss Muriel Dawson of Toronto spent the week-end with Mrs. Anne Dawson.

Mr. Gerald Coulter of Toronto spent the weekend with his parents Mr. & Mrs. Angus Coulter.

So many Gods, so many creeds, so many paths that wind and wind; While just the art of being kind, is all this sad world needs.

Don't forget the Rotary Carnival in Minden next week; see you there!

Adios and take care now.

Maple Lake News

by Ada Gibbs

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lucas, who now make their home in Florida, are holidaying at the Barclay's cottage on the Northshore for the month of July.

Many thanks to everyone who helped in any way to make St. Peter's Barn Sale a success. It was a huge success and the proceeds from the auction, the counters of things sold in the barn, the bake sale and the sale of refreshments, etc., netted over $1000.00 for the church. Congratulations to those helpers who worked so well together; and thanks again to the Barclay's for allowing us to use their barn once again for a good cause.

On Wednesday evening July 12, the Carnarvon-Stanhope Senior Girls Ball Team played against Wilberforce in the Stanhope Ball Park, winning by a score of 27 to 6. These girls from both centres are great little ball players.

Rev. and Mrs. Frank Coyle of St. John's Anglican Church in Sault Ste. Marie called on friends in the Maple Lake area recently while on vacation. Some of our local people will remember Frank Coyle as having been a student minister in this parish in the late 1940's.

Mr. and Mrs. Doug Brown of Hwy. 35 returned recently from an extended holiday tour through England, Scotland and Wales. While in Scotland they visited Blairgowrie where Doug's great grandfather, James Chambers had lived until 1856 when he came to Canada. For some time this family lived in the Port Hope area, then came to settle near Carnarvon. This James Chambers' son, William Chambers became Doug's grandfather. The William Chambers farm is off the Peterson Road along the road leading to Blairhampton. The buildings are still well kept, and I believe this acreage is the scene of the Chambers Family Re-unions from time to time. What an interesting custom!

Mrs. Jocelyn Baresch and children, David and Tracey are going home to Stratford, Ontario after and enjoyable two weeks vacation at the Doug Brown cottage on Twelve Mile Lake. They expect to return in a short time to continue their vacation accompanied by Mr. Baresch.

Trent-Severn News

Doug Campbell, a Peterborough historian, will be working with the Waterway this summer preparing a historical report on the Trent River.

Doug has been interested in the economic and industrial history of the Trent for several years. He has done previous research on the mills, business families, industries, and generating stations on the river.

He will be concentrating on Hastings, Campbellford, and Healey Falls.

His reports and research will help the Waterway prepare exhibits and pamphlets on the historical attractions of this section of the Waterway. The information will also help us in our school programs along the corridor.

A quick check on Canal Traffic

Despite a late opening, the traffic on the Waterway has been busy this year. Fine boating weather has been a help, of course.

The Peterborough Liftlock is about 18% busier in boaters than last year, with a surprising volume of car visitors. Bobcaygeon, at the centre of the system, is running ahead of last year.

The Northern section of the waterway is busy too; the last long weekend broke the record at Swift Rapids, where traffic is up about 25%. A lot of boaters are travelling up to watch the progress at the new Big Chute marine railway.

Water Control

Storage waters began to decline faster this past week. On July 10 the storage remaining was down 3% from the week before, at 89.3%. One year ago the storage stood at 65.1%.

When a small net inflow of water was occurring in Haliburton, large net losses due to evaporation were the rule on the rest of the system. Flows are now averaging about 650 cfs (18.4 cubic metres per second) out of the Kawarthas which is such a small amount that several dams on the lower Trent River have all their stoplogs in. The leakage through them accounts for the whole flow of the river at dams such as Dam #1, Trenton.

Lake Simcoe-Couchiching continues to follow its declining rule curve with an outflow there of only about 750 cfs (21.2 cubic metres per second.)

The Black River contribution is declining daily and stands at 57 cfs (1.6 cubic metres per second) on July 14.

Coboconk News

by Sheila Lake

Mr. Charlie Abbott, who is here from England, visiting his niece, Mrs. Lorne Farrow and family, got a real shock when he had to take a taxi from Toronto to Coboconk. Because of a phone call from Gatwick, regarding a bomb scare, his plane was late, discharging passengers. Since he was a few hours late landing at Malton, he missed his bus connections, necessitating his taking a taxi. Tariff listed taxi at $67.00. However, the taxi trip from Malton cost him $86.00 to Coboconk. In England, he could go the same distance by taxi for half or less than half the cost.

Mrs. Marie Madwid, her son Mr. and Mrs. Ron Medwid and Ron's baby; also Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Valierers of Berrin Spring, Michigan all were visitors of Mr. & Mrs. Ken Fralick and Clara Schell last week.

Mr. & Mrs. Jack Stevenson and children, of Regina, have been enjoying a visit with their parents, Mr. & Mrs. Barker of Lime St. Grand-daughter, Julie Barker of Toronto has also been visiting her grandparents.

Mrs. Mary Limrick is home after a two week visit with her cousin, Miss Theresa Fitzpatrick in Detroit, Michigan.

Mrs. Frances Nesbitt is home after a two week visit with her son, Mr. & Mrs. Bill Nesbitt and family at Moncton, New Brunswick. While away she also visited points of interest in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

Dr. & Mrs. Wm. White and girls have arrived from Calgary, Alberta to visit her mother, Mrs. Marles and his mother, Mrs. White of Louisa St., Fenelon Falls, and other relatives for the next month.

Wednesday night saw a great crowd of auction sale enthusiasts at the estate sale of the late Mr. & Mrs. E. Hugill on High Street. Bingo fans who usually attend the Lion's Club, Wednesday night bingo found all the parking area filled and were very frustrated when parking was so limited. Another sale of the same estate is being held at the 4-Mile Lake property just off Base Line Road.

Have you noticed activity beside the Vic-Ply factory just north of town? Apparently a Brewer's Retail store will be erected on the site very shortly.

On the T.V. programme "This Land" recently, Mrs. Mary Limrick's log home just north of Coboconk was one of the homes shown. The programme on log homes was most interesting and there were other homes from the area also shown.

It's good to see Mrs. Annie Reilly home after many months away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Gary Cobb at Bolton.

Keep in mind the Lion's Carnival coming up on July 29. Lots of entertainment, food, rides for the kiddies, games of chance, etc. Also, a smorgasbord feast if you are hungry.

This year again, there is the best in Chinese food available at the Pattie House Dining Room. Eat inside in the dining room or get take out orders if you wish. This was a popular eating place last year, so there is a repeat performance.

Area break ins

ing stemming from earlier incidents in Toronto.

A breakin was reported at 4 a.m. Saturday morning at the residence of Sharon Nunn in Haliburton, OPP say. Goods valued at $310 were reported taken in the incident.

Police were unable to provide further details of the theft Monday, and have not yet established whether there is a link between the Caudron Pharmacy theft, for which Nunn has been charged, and the theft from her residence.

Then, at 1 p.m., the big event of the weekend will commence. A parade featuring bands, clowns, floats and other surprises will organize at Lake's Restaurant outside of Wilberforce and march right through main street. The parade will end at the school.

At 2 p.m., in the arena, live entertainment will be featured, and a special occasion permit will be in effect.

Amateur entertainment featuring music and comedy will be going on also at this time in the Lloyd Watson Centre.

The good old fashioned Country Good Times Ball will commence at 9 p.m. with music by "Ad-els". This ball promises to be a real "hootenanny" so try and make it out.

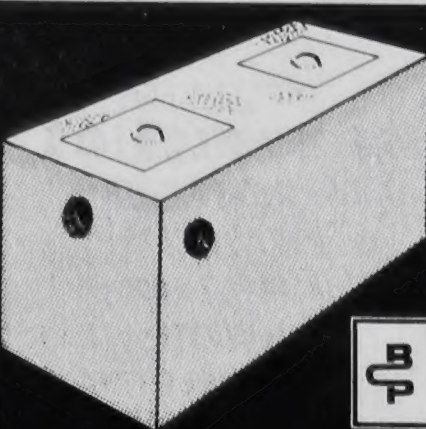

As the fun continues into Sunday, pancakes go onto the griddle at 9 a.m. for a pancake breakfast. The midway, concession booths and food stands will still be going strong throughout Sunday starting at noon along with the trade and home show continuing in the curling club.

The municipal library will have an open house starting at 1 p.m., and to top things off, a horse draw will begin at 2 p.m. featuring Heavy and Light class work horses. The arena will continue to operate a bar from 1 to 5 p.m.

Has anyone seen Tory Hill change over time?

Some of the Hamlet's older residents claim it hasn't

by Joe Banks

Tory Hill. It's a name that was given to a tiny Haliburton County settlement by an ardent conservative named John Anderson a long time ago.

Anderson, who was the crown land agent and post master in the area during the late 1800's, needed to call the few buildings and sawmills something - the post office that was to shortly come needed a name. Alexander Niven, Liberal candidate in the settlement, polled only one vote at election time and sarcastically called the place 'Tory Hill'. Anderson like the name, and so did the townspeople. So 'Tory Hill' it became.

It's an appropriate name for a town that has changed so very little since its beginning. Tory Hill remained Conservative.

The older people in the community say the hamlet has neither grown nor shrunk in size, and will probably always remain the same. It is a place that has little in common with neighbouring hamlets and villages in this respect.

Even though there were three lumber mills booming at one time, and even though mining looked to be the 'guiding light' for the hamlet during the fifties, the population and the lifestyle remained constant, after the railway went through.

"There never really was that much to Tory Hill," said Anderson's great grandson, Buster Anderson. He has lived in the hamlet all of his life.

"I'd say the boom in the town was probably around 1926 to 1939. That's when the two main merchants in the town had their own sawmills and all the lumber was going out by train. Around that time, Tory Hill was the centre of the municipality," he said.

The 'boom time' for Tory Hill, unlike other hamlets, was essentially during the depression. Most others had started in the mid to late 1800's and boomed immediately with the great flood of farmers and lumbermen that poured into Haliburton Co. in the late nineteenth century. Local people offer several reasons for the unchanging size of Tory Hill, and for the curious timing of its 'boom', but there is no solid proof of why Tory Hill blossomed during this time and then fell back to its original pace after the war began.

"It just kind of stood there," said Gordon Lee, who was born near Tory Hill.

But the Wheys, the Shorts, the Hambleys and the Finleys made "a go of the town". They owned the hamlet's three lumber mills and employed many of the men living there. 'Clip' Short was the hamlet's blacksmith and ran an enterprising business until his age forced him to give it up.

Ed Finley owned one of the two stores in the settlement in addition to the mill. The store has carried on through these generations and his grandson, Harry Finley, is now the present owner. The store burned down in 1910, and was rebuilt shortly afterwards.

"In my day, you usually got in and out by train. The roads weren't very good, if there were any at all," Harry Finley says.

Later on in the hamlet's history, mining influenced the economy of the community. Uranium was thought to be abundant in the hills surrounding Tory Hill, and several companies came into the community during the mid-fifties to do some test drilling and to take core samples to the ore.

Talk of shady 'goings on' by these companies, in their dealings with shareholders, could be heard in Tory Hill in the fifties, but the rumours were never proven.

"Charlie Earl was going to put us on the map, but it ended up that there was some property wheeling and dealing going on for the rights for the uranium," said Anderson. ing during that mining boom, and he remembers when "big shots came in with their Cadillac cars after we drilled about 15 holes and told us we were finished until further notice. They were people from Toronto and sold shares to shareholders."

Confidence in the mining industry was high, and, as Noble put it, "we thought we were off to the races."

Elsie Watson, wife of the late Lloyd Watson, has fond memories of Tory Hill when she was a little girl. The business side of the hamlet did not interest her so much as the dances and parties held in the community hall.

She recalls "cream cans gathered up on the platform with horses and buggies unloading them...and when there were schools every two or three miles along the road through Tory Hill."

She lived on a farm in her youth during the Great War and remembers when cows were allowed to run free all over the township. The beasts would eat the grass along the roads while loose, and, says Watson, "that's why the grass was always trimmed along the roadside."

She remembers the day grasshoppers plagued the hamlet. Clouds of the insects could be seen and she recalls attended as a little girl. It was "a log cabin with long wooden benches that's been there as long as I can remember".

She now lives directly across from the school. Her mother boarded men who worked on the railway out of Tory Hill at their farm, as well as a school teacher.

moved in down the hill, Tory Hill moved with it," said Dunford.

His clearest memory of Tory Hill in his day was Clip Short's blacksmith shop. The boys always had a place to go when they had nothing to do because "we all liked to go down and watch Clip on the anvil. It'd keep everybody in one place."

Dunford too, recalls the harshness of the winters. "It seems to me that we got a lot more snow then than we do now. I know we just used to ride over fences in sleighs anywhere - that's how deep the snow was. We'd have to wade through snow on our way to school, sometimes reaching up to our waist," he said.

Dunford remembers when the church was moved across the road from its original location. His grandfather owned a saw mill near the hamlet that went out of business in later years, so though there was little change in Tory Hill over the years, apparently minor changes to the village, such as these, were monumental to the townspeople.

Evidence of this can be seen in the citizens' knowledge of the cheese factory that existed near the hamlet until the early 1900's. Most cannot remember the factory, for it closed down nearly 80 years ago, but Agnes Lee remembers the large cheese cans that would sit out in front of the railway station, waiting to be picked up by train.

When the cheese factory closed, much of the need for the railway went with it.

Tory Hill then and now

One can really see how little Tory Hill has changed by comparing the past with the present. The picture above was taken about 1910 looking south on highway 121. The photograph above was taken in exactly the same place about 3 weeks ago.

Tory Hill: The unchangeable

One of the few changes from the old days: The Tory Hill United Church which was built in 1928. The church was moved from across the road several years ago.

though the transportation of lumber and other dairy products depended on the trains. The loss of the cheese factory didn't appear on the surface to be too major in relation to the economics of the village, but it was one which added to Tory Hill's lack of growth and stability.

More than one life-time resident of Tory Hill will admit they did occasionally have enough time to pursue a "little bit of fun", however. Buster Anderson admits that he "did a lot of fishing during the summer. During the winter we did some skiing, went on sleigh rides (when there was a chance), went tobogganing, and went to farmers places around for taffy pulls - whether we were invited or not."

Anderson also recalls the noise of the river-drivers' camps at night. He and Harry Finley chuckled at one another when he mentioned it. "They sure raised hell in those camps", he said.

But Tory Hill was and still is a "dry" hamlet. Any man wanting to get his fill had to go into Gooderham, where there were regulated bars and hotels.

"Tory Hill was never a rough town. Gooderham was the rough place in these parts", said Anderson.

The lake was called a 'bog'

The community hall in the hamlet not only played host to the local citizens in the community, but it was also used as an army training barracks during WW II. Dances, however, were not lessened as a result of the "takeover" by the military. Someone's house or barn floor would do just as good a job.

Finley's mother, Maude, who lived to her mid-nineties, was the celebrity in the hamlet. She had a collection of over 500 cups and saucers made and collected from various countries all over the world. "People would come from miles around just to see Maude Finley's cup and saucer collection," said Maureen Finley, Harry's wife.

"But the collection is no longer in existence - it was broken up and the collection is spread all over the place now. We've got a few of them," she added.

The lake in Tory Hill, McKough's Lake, was named after a man who had tipped his canoe and lost all his supplies so the tale goes. The lake today is the bane of fish, long since polluted and called "a mud-bog" by Elsie Watson. No reason for the death of the lake has been found, and resident fishermen have had a few choice words about it.

But Tory Hill is still there, and you can see it on the junction of highways 121 and 519. Take a long look at it, and imagine the town the way it was 80, 90, or 100 years ago. It hasn't changed much, so the locals will tell you, and is not likely to.

You really won't have to imagine too hard.

The only remaining schoolhouse in Tory Hill similar to the one Agnes Lee went to still stands. It's an old reminder of days when children had to walk miles to school, and when school in the winter was unheard of, since roads were impassable. In the summer, children would wear flour bags for pants as part of their school dress.

Unwelcome insects becoming prevalent

Every summer the forests of Ontario play host to thousands of summer visitors most of them welcome.

But some of them are unwelcome pests, particularly the Birch Leafminer and the Spruce Needleminer prevalent now.

The adult Birch Leafminers emerge from the soil about mid-May and being egg-laying soon after the leaves unfold from the bud. As the name suggests, the insect larvae feed between the upper and lower leaf surfaces forming tunnels which often unite to form a large brown blotch on half or more of the leaf.

The best control method is to apply dimethoate on the tree trunk in the spring or spray on the foliage in late May and June.

Other common tree pests in the region have exotic names such as Yellowheaded Spruce Sawfly, Pine Spittlebug, and White Pine Weevil.

If the trees at your home or cottage host these or other unwelcome summer visitors, advice can be obtained from the nearest office of the Ministry of Natural Resources.

Haliburton Highlights

Off and on we still seem to be running into trouble with street lights being off at various sections of the village. It's very annoying to the people who live on these streets.

Litter barrels are placed all over the main street but come Sunday morning one would think that a tornado had hit it. There seems to be litter all over the place. We realize that the municipal employees are going to sweep it up on Monday morning, but let's use a little common sense and make sure that this litter is placed in the containers not on the sidewalk.

Everyone seems to be wondering when the paving operations are going to get underway in Haliburton. All we can say is that it won't be very long now when the paving will start and the dust will be gone.

We were very interested in a Letter to the Editor that appeared last week in the Toronto Star written by Mrs. J.E. Burton of Minden and we quote: "After many years of complaining about the condition of the grandstand seats, I would be remiss if I did not comment the CNE on the 'new look'. What a pleasant surprise when arriving for an Argo game to find the comfortable and attractive new seats. With this addition of the most interesting and informative score board, Torontonians should be very proud of the Exhibition.

No one like mosquitoes and we here in the Highlands of Haliburton are no different than people from other areas of Ontario. The Ontario government is continuing its monitoring and public awareness programs on mosquitoes in order to prevent a recurrence of the 1975 encephalitis outbreak, when the province had 70 cases. There is no effective treatment for the disease, so prevention is essential. To back the program, the Ministry of the Environment is offering a free booklet on mosquito control, available from local health units and the ministry.

The "We Treat You Royally" campaign now on in Ontario is apparently really paying off in the Highlands of Haliburton. When I was coming out of church last Sunday morning a visitor from Leamington stopped me and told me that he had been coming back to Haliburton for the past twelve years and in the past it was his opinion that the visitors and cottagers have been treated rather shabbily. He noted that the campaign is really paying off and he can really notice everyone much friendlier especially the store clerks. This is really good news to our ears so keep up the good work and keep those smiles up front.

The Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts 1978 Summer Exhibition and Sale is now history. It was a success all the way round from the point of material sold and the crowds attending this show were bigger than ever.

If you want to leave your car at home you can go by bus to the Canadian National Exhibition. Travelways are running buses from Haliburton, picking passengers up at Minden and Cobocook and other points enroute on Saturday, August 19th for the Scottish World Festival, Friday, August 25th for Dolly Parton, Tuesday, August 29th, The Osmonds and Friday, September 1st for Styx. There is a limited number of reserved Grandstand tickets available for above performances.

Haliburton's second Fiddling and Step Dancing Championships held at the Curling rink in Haliburton over the weekend was once again, a great success. Hundreds of people turned out for all the performances and everyone I have been talking to were well pleased with the shows.

Lou Consy told me last week that show business has really been booming this summer at the Molou Theatre in Haliburton. The Goodbye Girl which was on last Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday really packed them in.

We thought that the following editorial from last week's Brussels Post was well worth reprinting. The heading over the editorial was Good News Time.

Something seems to be happening to North American society that may be far more significant than past revolutions such as the "greening" of America, or the hippies, or the protest marches.

For the first time in many years, we're in a mood for good news again.

Star Wars becomes the biggest money making movie of all time. Surprised—the good guys win. And they do it, not by some clever trick that catches their opponents off guard, but by trusting something bigger than themselves, by something that used to be called faith.

Close Encounters of the Third Kind presents alien creatures, not as a malevolent enemy to be beaten off, but as a sign of hope.

Almost all the big national magazines in Canada have now carried feature articles on marriages that last, instead of just those that break up. And on the Merv Griffin Show, Ross Hunter, the director of Airport, says that people are getting tired of sex, violence and pornography. According to Hunter, they're ready for love stories again.

Faith...hope...and love...Maybe it's true, as newscaster Lloyd Robertson writes in the Presbyterian Record, quoting a U.S. university president, that "the Christian experience has become acceptable again."

If our obsession with bad news is indeed waning, that in itself is good news.

Due to the increase in business Boice Motor Sales Limited at Haliburton have had to put on a new addition to their present garage business. The new addition which has been added to their present building is 30 X 70. They have added on two more mechanics bringing the total of employees to 22. This new extension will provide the customer with faster and more efficient service.

This one and one half storey design has a wide range of convenience features guaranteed to please the most demanding of families - from the exposed beams over the wide entrance porch to the sunken fireplace pit in the family room.

The double-doored entry leads into a high open foyer, which leads to the right past the stairwell and into the living room. The living room features a high vaulted ceiling and raised hearth stone fireplace with built-in wood rounded by a sunken conversation pit, and sliding glass doors to a large rear patio. Off the nook is the large laundry-utility complex, which contains a two-piece vanity bath behind a pocket door and sufficient storage space to serve as a mud room with access from the double garage.

The four bedrooms are positioned upstairs and have rear exposures for excellent natural light. The master bedroom has a three-piece ensuite with shower and a full wall of closet storage space.

Adjacent to the master bath is a large linen storage area and an access door to a large enclosed storage space over the garage. The upstairs landing is an open balcony overlooking the front entry stairwell and the vaulted living room.

A full basement contains the forced air furnace and abundant space for the future development of a recreation room, wet bar, workshop and storage facilities.

An intelligent floor plan which derives the maximum of usable space and conven-721 Ontarians interviewed by Ontario Medical Assn.

Attitudes to doctors surveyed

Two out of three Ontario residents say they would consult their family doctor about lifestyle problems such as alcoholism, marital crises, over-eating and drug abuse, according to a public opinion survey commissioned by the Ontario Medical Association.

The survey was conducted for the Association by an independent research firm among a cross-section of 721 Ontarians 15 years of age and over. The interviews were carried out during November of last year.

Older people, according to the survey, are more disposed to seeking such advice than their younger counterparts. For instance, 75 per cent of those over 40 said they would consult their family doctor about social problems whereas 54 per cent of those under 30 said they would do so.

Women are only slightly more likely to consult their family doctor on life-style problems than men. The figure was 70 per cent for women, 62 per cent for men.

While people living in metropolitan areas were less likely to seek such advice than those in smaller centres of population, the figures for all ages were still high; 61 per cent in areas over 500,000 population, 66 per cent in areas over 30,000 and 74 per cent under 30,000 population.

"It is also apparent the public has come to realize that many social problems are, in effect, social diseases. Such appreciation shows an increasing sophistication among a large percentage of our population."

The results of other questions asked in the survey were:

When asked if there were too few doctors in the community, 42 per cent of those responding in Northern Ontario said there were, 30 per cent in Western Ontario, 27 per cent in Eastern Ontario and 22 per cent in Metropolitan Toronto.

While 44 per cent of all respondents agreed that their doctor was willing to make house calls (33 per cent disagreed, 10 partly agreed and 13 per cent didn't know), 61 per cent of those over 55 years of age said their doctor would.

Finally, 70 per cent agreed that people go to doctors when they don't really need to (12 per cent disagreed, 12 per cent partly agreed and six per cent didn't know).

Fortunately, the Board of Governors of Sir Sandford Fleming College has recognized the potential of this county and its people by locating its northern campus, with its emphasis in the arts and crafts in Haliburton village. No doubt, too, a number of private artists (both native and migrants) envision this locale as the centre of arts in Ontario. Now it is up to the rest of us to think similarly. In due time not only will the local artisans increase in number and develop special prestige but in turn renown artists will establish residence in this area. In turn this will mean the Haliburtonians will be catering not primarily to cottagers and seasonal visitors but also to tourists from all of the world. Such persons will visit the county not just for its scenery but to witness its arts which has become (possibly within two to three decades) world famous.

Such thoughts need not be a wild dream. As residents and visitors we must support at every opportunity, the efforts of Sir Sandford Fleming College and the private artists. Within the elementary and secondary schools everything possible must be done to promote such arts as music (vocal and instrumental) drama, painting, sculpturing, dancing and so forth. To stimulate our youth to pursue such intrinsic interests becomes the responsibility of educators, school board trustees and parents. Bailing to pursue the arts as our "special thing" leaves us with what options? More of the same, restrictive industry, isolationism or what?

Gerry Feltham

To the Editor:

My reason for writing is the attitude of many of our Canadian ("Neighbours") toward the American tourist. We had our Vacation from the 28th of June to the 5th of July. In that period of time we celebrated "Dominion Day" and the "Fourth of July", "Independence Days" - the first for Canada and the fourth for the United States. We had a big bonfire with all our relatives and friends on Dominion Day. On the 4th we went to the lake with some Roman Candles and sparklers which we set off over the water. We were thoroughly boozed and cat called from across the lake. I and my family are probably as deeply Canadian as anyone in this area, since my grandparents and their children homesteaded many farms in this area and although my mother became an American citizen we have maintained and paid taxes on the old farm since 1902.

Since this area depends a very great deal on Tourists (As you may have noticed the American Tourism has fallen off a great deal in this area), I think it would be a little wiser to be more compatible. At least a little common courtesy could be shown.

We are deeply tied to this part of Canada and it hurts to be treated in such a manner.

Sincerely,
Emily Curtiss Warner & Family

Galway/Cavendish Council

The twelfth regular Council meeting was held in the Township office on Friday, June 30th at 7:30 p.m. Present: Reeve Brickman, Deputy Reeve Chambers, Councillors: Stuart, Nokes, MacLellan. Staff: Gord Robinson, Building Inspector; Visitors: Mr. Hefner, Guy Scott, Mrs. M. Telford, Mr. Wright, Jerry Keast and Walter Lane.

General accounts in the amount of $81,828.89, road accounts of $15,103.94, and Young Canada grant voucher of $957.49 were approved for payment, at the June 30th meeting of Galway/Cavendish Council.

A Mr. Hefner, manager of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce from Cobocok, attended the council meeting to meet and discuss with council any questions that they might have regarding the banking procedures and investments policies. Council thanked Hefner for coming to the meeting.

Mrs. Margaret Telford attended the meeting at Council's request to discuss the Kinmount Horticultural Society and their request for a grant. After Mrs. Telford gave the council a brief outline on the Society's commitments for the year and a financial statement, council passed a following resolution that the Township donate the sum of $50 to the Kinmount Horticultural Society for the year 1978 to assist them in their endeavours in the community.

Guy Scott attended the council meeting to discuss with council their request for a beer gardens at the Annual Kinmount Fair. A considerable discussion took place before a resolution was passed, saying, that the Kinmount Agricultural Society will be granted permission to operate a beer garden on Sept. 2, 1978 in conjunction with the annual Kinmount Fair.

Area fires

will break out because, says Musclove, "more tourists and campers are back in the bush then."

Fires, he says, are also common on Mondays or Tuesdays since weekend fires sometimes take a few days to spread and become noticeable.

Musclove warns campers and blueberry pickers to be extra careful during the next few weeks since the fire rating will be high.

"Make sure your fires are out and watch cigarettes," says Musclove.

Jerry Keast, attended the council meeting to answer any questions council had pertaining to the N & P Ltd. severance application.

Application for severance # B-107-78 in the name of N & P Ltd., Conc. 16, Lot N 1/2 Galway Twp. was approved, subject to a fee of $50 payable to the Township, as it conforms to the Twp. land use By-law # 77-13 and the North Kawartha Official Plan.

Severance B-83-78 of Norman Alcock, lot 2, Conc. 16, Twp. of Cavendish, was deferred until Alcock or his representative meets with councillor Stuart to view the property.

Severance # B-112-78 in the name of Francis Ireland, Conc. 16, lot 1, Twp. of Cavendish, approved subject to a $50 fee payable to the Township. This severance conforms to the Twp. land use By-law 77-13 and the North Kawartha Official Plan.

Councillor Nokes will view the property of Harold Taylor, Conc. 4, lot 24, Twp. of Cavendish, with regards to application for severance B-121-78 and report his recommendations to Council at the next meeting.

Severance application B-124-78 and B-125-78 for Marg Int-Veen, Conc. II, lot W 1/2 17, Twp. of Galway, was referred to councillor Stuart for inspection of the property and his recommendations are to be submitted at the next council meeting.

NOTES

1. The Expropriations Act provides that:

(a) where an inquiry is requested, it shall be conducted by an inquiry officer appointed by the Minister of Justice and Attorney General;

(b) the inquiry officer:

(i) shall give every party to the inquiry an opportunity to present evidence and argument and to examine and cross-examine witnesses, either personally or by his counsel or agent; and

(ii) may recommend to the approving authority that a party to the inquiry be paid a fixed amount for his costs of the inquiry not to exceed $200 and the approving authority may in its discretion order the expropriating authority to pay such costs forthwith.

2. "owner" and "registered owner" are defined in the Act as follows:

"owner" includes a mortgagee, tenant, execution creditor, a person entitled to a limited estate or interest in land, a committee of the estate of a mentally incompetent person or of a person incapable of managing his affairs, and a guardian, executor, administrator or trustee in whom land is vested;

"registered owner" means an owner of land whose interest in the land is defined and whose name is specified in an instrument in the proper Land Registry or Sheriff's office, and includes a person shown as a tenant of land on the last revised assessment roll.

3. The expropriating authority, each owner who notifies the approving authority that he desires a hearing in respect of the lands intended to be expropriated and any owner added as a party by the inquiry officer are parties to the inquiry.

THANK YOU

We would like to sincerely thank all our relatives, friends and neighbours for your many acts of kindness, prayers, cards, flowers, food and donations to the Cancer Society during our recent bereavement. A very special thanks to Peter and Don and staff at Curry Motors, Rev. Denny, Rev. John Smith, the Drs. and Nurses at the Red Cross Hospital, to the ladies who served lunch at our home and Mr. Monk of John Welch & Son Funeral Home. Your kindness, we will always remember.
Sincerely, Laurie, Lew and Rene Roberts & Family 19

Many thanks for the flowers, gifts, cards, phone calls, food, visits and for your many prayers. Thanks to Drs. Belch, Heyes and Good and to all the nurses on the 3rd floor of St. Joseph's Hospital. God bless you all.

 advisor to be reworded and strengthened in some areas. The revised by-law is to be submitted to council for consideration at a future date, but not later than Sept. 15, 1978.

The clerk-treasurer was authorized to advertise in the following papers: Haliburton Echo, Lindsay Post and the Shoppers Market, the dates and locations of the public meetings for the purpose of viewing the proposed comprehensive zoning by-law, to implement the policies of the North Kawartha Official Plan.

The meetings will be held as follows: Saturday, July 29, 1978 at 11:00 a.m. at the Galway Cavendish Community Centre, Galway Road, R.R. #1, Kinmount; Wednesday, August 2, 1978, at 7:30 p.m. at the property of Russell More, Corner of Beaver Lake Road and Hwy. 507; and Saturday, August 5, 1978 at 11:00 a.m. at the property of Russell More, Corner of Beaver Lake Road, and Hwy. 507.

The townships' solicitor was authorized to remove the subdivision agreement between Vincent Smith and the township of Galway and Cavendish, dated the 14th day of October 1964, from the title of certain land on lot 27, concession 10, Township of Galway.

Walter Lane, attended the Council meeting to discuss with council a piece of property on Crystal Lake known as Conc. 10, lot 30, in the name of Wilena Smith. It was suggested that the property be viewed by council before the next council meeting.

Fire Wardens who are issuers of permits will be compensated for any postage required and the clerk will send a letter to the Fire Wardens informing them of the policy, with a copy of the Ministry of Natural Resources.
